Someone with the "flu" is to be sympathized with, but she often is to be chastised, too. There are so many preventatives.

the first place, all rules of health are grounded on the simple principle of hygiene, cleanliness and regularity. If a person will keep regular hours, get plenty of sleep, breathe fresh air, and take a cold bath every morning, she will thus keep her physical condition such that it will not be susceptible to contagious diseases.

however, she does catch a cold. The next best thing to do is to use extra precaution and care. Some doctors advocate the eating of plenty of oranges and grapefruit. Others think that if they take soda in hot water every night before retiring.

Still, others vouch for bromine tablets taken after every meal and before retiring. Vicks Vapo-oil is also a good remedy for the same.

Newly elected officers of Pan Hellenic council will be installed at an open meeting of Pan Hellenic to be held in the college auditorium Monday, March 23.

Mary Hume will be the president for the year and Nancy Lutz the secretary. The officers are accorded to the sororities on the campus in relation of a new system. Sororities Make Plans For New Homes to Be Completed Next Fall Security activities on F. & C. W.'s campus are going forward by leaps and bounds with two sororities having already made definite plans for houses to be completed in the fall.

Sigma Kappa will build on the corner of West Park Avenue and Commercial street. The architectural plans are being drawn by Fletcher of Tallahassee. Kappa Delta is planning to build on the corner of Pensacola street and Commercial street. It is said other sororities that have not had houses are planning to have them next year, but nothing definite has been decided.

memory the Bach STAGNATE. Miss Goodyear played from the "Prelude" to the "Toccata." These made inclusion demands that the young organist met with well-grounded technique and an understanding of contrapuntal values.

Miss Goodyear's piano, feeling for color, and interpretative phrasing, were well-developed in the "Prelude," "Prelude," "Kindersprünge," and the "Toccata." These made inclusion demands that the young organist met with well-grounded technique and an understanding of contrapuntal values.

Miss Margaret Herndon assisted with two harp groups. This young harpist entered college this season studying that instrument with Miss Mary Bender. Miss Herndon has played the harp for a number of years and was well received by the audience. She played a solo group with some balance of parts and technique. The numbers were charming, consisting of the dainty "Gavotte" arranged by Salzedo, and the Grandjean "Le Bon Petit Roi."

Her second group was a two harp number played with Miss Bender as the second harp. It was an attractive characteristic "Gavotte" by Puccini played with few examples.

MISS TURNER HONORED AT BIRTHDAY DINNER

Hein Vernon Calder and Leslie Morgan entertained with a birthday dinner party in honor of Carlen Turner Friday evening in the college dining room.

A St. Patrick's Day motif was carried out in the decorations. A long green streamer ran the length of the table. Pyramids of marble contained fortunes that the guests drew upon arriving were placed at each place. The favors were shamrocks with shamrocks.

Those present were: Emily Pringle, Ruth Weeks, Eugenie Davis, Mary Louise Shogren, Victoria Dahlberg, Katherine Nelson, Carolyn Lewis, Bess Hawkins Ward, Katherine Bess, June Anderson, Hazel Bass, Wyvern Edinger, Alma Dichtmiller, Ida and Irene Stewart, Carlen Turner, Helen Calder, and Louise Morgan.

Delicious refreshments were served.

Dr. Stewart Speaks at Scientific Society

"Instead of bugs I'm going to talk about bones," began Dr. Albert Stewart of the bacteriology department at the regular meeting of the scientific society Saturday night, March 14.

Fossils are found mainly in localities which grasshoppers, houseflies and rat-like snakes frequent, according to Dr. Stewart. "There are a few designated areas where fossils are found in profusion, but the hand most conducive to fossil discovery is eroded, rough, and full of gulches," Dr. Stewart said.

VESPER TOPIC IS "FEAR TO TRUST ONE'S ABILITY"

DR. LIDDELL SPEAKS ON TAKING ADVANTAGE OF OPPORTUNITY

"Any life, however cramped and restricted externally can be a great life," said Dr. Anna F. Liddell, associate professor of Philosophy, in Vespers on Friday, March 17. Her topic for the evening was "Who Am I? That I Should Be?" and was based on the story of Moses and his distrustfulness of his own ability to lead the children of Israel out of Egypt.

Dr. Liddell says the distrustful attitude, the fear of one's own inability, is the attitude typical of young people. "You are an opportunity for great service, and know what should be done, but stand back and ask 'Aren't there more capable people for this task?' It is your business to do the work if it is put up to you."

Dr. Liddell followed this first thought with the story of the little boy who gave his five loaves and two fishes for the multitude to eat. "He did not question, will it be enough," said Dr. Liddell. "He trusted God to work the miracle of greatness."

Quoting "The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars but in ourselves," Dr. Liddell said the devil lies in distracting our abilities. "If we strive, whole lives as true and perfect gifts, if we treat opportunities as they come in full confidence of our ability because there is a power not ourselves in us which makes for righteousness, we need have no fear of the outcome," she stated.

"Many say opportunity knocks but once, but I think it knocks upon our doorsteps," she said. "We are just unwilling to trust our own powers."

FLAMBEAU CORRECTS ERROR IN OMISSION OF VOICE

Through some error the name of the Vogue was omitted from the list of Tallahassee shops which held costumes for the Beauty play given here two weeks ago. The Flambeau is sorry this mistake occurred in the new story.

Not only did the Vogue support the college in this last project, but this shop has consistently been one of the most loyal supporters of the college and will be anxious and the Flambeau takes pleasure in correcting the omission of its name from the list of shops contributing costumes for the faculty play.

Week-End Visitors To The Campus

Among the weekend visitors to the campus were the following men:

M. D. Edwards, Hugh Anderson, Charles Dubois, Chester Ferguson, Arthur Brown, Alvin Cox, W. D. Dalton, P. BIRTHDAY PARTY HELD FOR THREE

Jeannie Davis, Audrey Melton, Frances Butterfield, Patrice Melton, and Mildred Palmer celebrated their birthdays, all of which occur in March, at a celebration birthday party at the Tri Sigma house Sunday night.

The St. Patrick idea was carried out in the decorations of green and white. A birthday cake was won by Jeannie Davis, prize being a large box of grapes. A large birthday cake with one hundred and two candles was the center of attraction. Refreshments consisting of cake and orange punch were served to members of the society and several visitors.

WHAT DO YOU THINK ABOUT IT?

Opinions of Students, Faculty Members, and Others on Topsy Subjects

WHAT DO YOU THINK ABOUT THE CAP AND GOWN TRADITION?

Dean Kennedy, senior: "It is not worthy of college girls. If we were to use an example of their childishness."

Thelma Summer, sophomore: "It might have been less like carrying a yard, for while it seemed as if the campus was a regular battle ground, and that belongs among students on a college campus. Had the underclassmen led it, it would not have been so much like a parade."

Gertrude Price, junior: "If it had happened three weeks ago it might have been more of a joke, but it was a little different in a few girls."

Emily E. Williams, senior: "I had a big time. The whole affair was a little bit humorous."

A. F. Warren, sophomore: "I think the juniors slipped up on us. The yearbook waited one more day at least."

Harriet Jackson, senior: "I think the thing as a joke was all right, but there was absolutely no excuse for it."

Harriet Jackson: "It seems that if girls are old enough to be in the college they should have outgrown the fighting class long ago. If the fighting did any good it would be different, but it does not help recover the cap and gown."

BOTANY CLASS GATHERS SPECIMENS WHILE ON TRIP TO LAKE BRADFORD

"Well, this class must be made up of angels," said Dr. Kurt last afternoon, as they arrived at Lake Bradford and found half of its class already busy hunting specimens.

'Gator Gossip

Dear Gator:

The Tallahassee campus, like the Ocala one, seemed to be deserted and quiet. There was no official letter from the state, but the students were in the city.

LEGISLATURE

Florida State College for Women welcomed all members of the state legislature.

We hope that while they are in Tallahassee they will visit our college and mingle with the girls whom they know and get acquainted with those whom they do not.

They are cordially invited to whatever entertainments we have on campus. They will also receive a letter from the college when they visit to eat with us in the dining hall at any of our classes, and college service.

We sincerely wish them a successful and pleasant term this year.

STEPPING STONES ARE NEEDED ON MORE PATHS

There have been new additions leading to the dormitories, and "stepping stones" leading from the sidewalks to several of the A building entrances, but as yet no suggestions have been made about having stepping stones to the Education building from the sidewalk leading up from Reynolds Hall. Many girls use the path through the grass there, and it is constantly widening.

Just how much more attractive the campus would be with squares of cement at intervals along that path, where anyone who uses the more improved paths know. It is not only helpful to the beauty of the campus, but will allow hurrying students to go the short way to the Education building in wet weather without fear of ruining a clear pair of hose. "Economy" will be the result for both students and the college in the long run.

THE CAP AND GOWN TRADITION BEFUDDLED

It seems that the struggle for caps and gowns has been causing some comment as to whether this tradition should continue. Seniors and juniors alike have perhaps not been interested in the tradition, and especially the history of it.

It is remarkable that every class is calling the other a group of poor sports? Probably they are not saying such as in strong words, but they are implying it, and the other did not play fairly, or act exactly as they say. Such talk is pure nonsense.

Juniors have stolen caps and gowns from the seniors until it has become a tradition. Seniors are defended themselves and kept the caps and gowns. They are not even means they could. Both classes are equally involved and the general atmosphere at such a time is anything but normal. The only solution for a situation like this is to prevent it from happening next year. It will be up to the juniors of the year to determine whether this tradition is to continue.

Why are some institutions given like this? There is no admission, so everybody comes.

Facts and more definite concisely points would have been interesting; to much time spent arguing with them, and it is not how to solve it.

PERMANENT BUILDING FUND IS NEEDED

At the year's session of the legislature it is hoped that a permanent building fund for the Florida institutions of higher learning is approved. At present the state college alone needs buildings and equipment that would probably cost $800,000, a rough estimate.

The school is steadily growing, with an increase of about 100 students in the last two years. The facilities are not such that this steady increase can be adequately taken care of. At present only about 72 per cent of the girls attending are housed in dormitories. The other 28 per cent are forced to live either in sorority houses or in private homes.

Several vacant places in the dormitories, but most girls drop out of school during the year so the problem of the end of the school term is considerably less crowded. However, in two years the situation over this gradual relief will not be possible.

The college is outgrowing its site in a few other phases too. The infirmary is much too small for its needs. Its inadequacy was plainly demonstrated during the influenza epidemic. Because of its lack of space and equipment, recreation had to be used until it became full to overflowing. The school had to be dismissed. As long as the health of the students is normal, the infirmary can take care of the need; but as soon as the influx is a little greater than usual, the doctors and nurses are worked over-time, able to do little and have attention to their patients.

And now that we have our big new gymnasium under construction, we need a new laundry and a power house. In its vicinity, much expense could be cut if the school could do its own laundry and furnish its own lights. It would be cheaper both for the administration and for the girls.

WET WIND AND FLOOD IN EDUC.
NEEDS MORE PARCHING STUDENTS
 The weather has been a cruel enemy for us as we, the girls iron over keys, and the sunny atmosphere we exhaled in the degree of sunshine that has been our days. And all because they haven't the little steps that lead to the paths as are scattered in other parts of the campus.

There are envious of the south-side girls and they don't mind exhibiting such a proud front. They feel as though they have been cheated out of the campus through the weather. The weather is a cruel enemy for us as we, the girls iron over keys, and the sunny atmosphere we exhaled in the degree of sunshine that has been our days. And all because they haven't the little steps that lead to the paths as are scattered in other parts of the campus.

The part of the campus that is wettest in the winter is the stretch of grassy land between Reynolds and the new building. That is where walking facilities are needed to keep the students from slipping in rainy weather and to keep the paths from becoming more rugged and untidy as the winter days close.

We need at least more path to even things up among the students.

The plums gave a burlesque on the Dance Drama of last week early Monday morning.

Mud foos some comrades, doesn't it? Who was the girl who sank almost up to her neck in the way to breakfast Monday morning?

WHAT DO YOU THINK ABOUT IT?

Opinions of Students, Faculty Members, and Others on "Cracklings"

WHAT DO YOU THINK IS THE MOST INTERESTING PAGE OF THE FLAMBEAU?

Katherine Mosser, sophomore: "I like to know what the students think concerning the campus questions of the day, the 'Who's Who' of the faculty, and the college, Gator Gossip."

Maureen Hunter, senior: "I like the second page best of the Flambeau because it gives the more or less frank treatment of 'Campus Questions' and 'Gator Gossip'."

Gene Davis, junior: "The second page is most interesting for many reasons. It has 'Who's Who' of the Faculty, and student opinions on timely subjects."

Dorothy Wells, senior: "I like the editorial page best because 'Cracklings' are on that page and I consider that opinion the dearest thing in the paper."

Elizabeth Krone, freshman: "I think the first page is the most interesting because it gives a good idea of the college."

Elaine McGeehan, sophomore: "Since the Flambeau is the college paper, I think the most interesting part of it is the second page, as it has all of the news and bits of gossip on the campus heard and seen by the editors."

Janet Arnold, freshman: "I think the second page is the most interesting. Editorials and the most informal parts always appeal to me most of all."

Mary Louise Smith, sophomore: "Speaking of the year's session of the legislature, I think the second page of the Flambeau is more than any other. It is most interesting to know opinions of certain students on some of our campus problems."

Mary Louise Smith, sophomore: "The editorial page is the most interesting to me. I like the editorials and cracklings and the whole page in general because it is the most personal."

Ruth Rousseau, freshman: "I like those 'Cracklings' in the editorial page. I like the fact that the front page of the news but on the editorial page you get that personal touch which is always more interesting to me than just news."

Some Port Remarks That Are Pertinent

Gator Gossip—You have an almost unanimous opinion into the affair of our fair school. The weather is your recent suggestion that Sokey is the perpetrator of the Crackling crime. By the way since when has Tully been infallible?

Our life is blighted. Dr. Rogers has committed the crime infeasible and called the poor, long-suffering toad a toad of no account. Dr. Rogers would say, and so would I.

Song of the bored faculty member:
 Turn backward, turn backward, on Time
 Turn backward, turn backward, on Time
 Make me a child again just for the Senior-faculty baseball game.

An up and coming editorial in last week's Flambeau makes not a word of mention of a girl who called Arnold Bennett a traitor. It is a plural subject with a singular verb. The writer could have been a little too at the student body which obviously has no authority to take it upon itself to laugh. Oh, no, it wasn't being polite. At least if it was the first indication of such politeness that we have ever seen.

At the request of half of the student body we call attention to Miss Finch's apt story about the walkways. All the people who have the intelligence to read the editorial of Mrs. Finch's delightful program should have been able to find it heart!

No one could accuse Orchestras of not giving a kick.

What the world really needs is not the ice cigar, but a smoking room for ninnys and their profits. What, no answer, Dr. Rogers?

The height of uselessness—an elevator boy for the Reynolds elevator!

EMMA SPENCER TO HEAD ATHLETICS

Association Will Have A Varied Sports Program

The Summer School Athletic Association, with Emma Spencer, president of the Board of the Association, and Varr Dull, Florine Logan, Harriot Baker and other members, is in charge of all athletic contests. Through this organization the students are furnished with all athletic equipment.

Croquet will be played in the Sunken Gardens in front of Foley Hall, and Jennie Murphree. This is open to all who wish to play. Players are asked to replace the balls and mallets in the boxes when they have finished.

Horseshoes will be played near the Sunken Gardens for those who wish to play at any time. Players are requested to place all the shoes at one of the pegs when they have finished playing.

Those who are interested in archery are requested to watch the bulletin boards for announcements. (Continued on Page 4.)

MILDRED HOGG NEW PRESIDENT Y. W. C. A.

The first meeting and election of officers of the Y. W. C. A. was held Monday evening, June 17th, at 7:15, in the chapel. Miss Mildred Hogg was elected President; Irene Brunson, Treasurer, and Katie Harbison, Publicity Chairman.

After the election Miss Margaret Shepard, Y. W. C. A. Director, spoke a few minutes in regard to carrying out while in Summer School a well balanced program. "Do not forget in your intense study," says Miss Shepard, "the beauty of our campus, the many friends around you and the pleasures to store for you."

SECOND ARTIST SERIES.

Fifteen-Year-Old Violinist to Appear Thursday.

John Arthur Long, left-handed violinist, 15 years of age, will entertain on Thursday evening, at 8:15 o'clock in the College Auditorium.

This is the second number of the Artist Series for the summer session. All who possibly can should take advantage of this opportunity to enjoy some of the well-known artists.

BOOK COLLECTION IS ON EXHIBITION

There is a fine collection of books published by different companies on exhibition at the Education Building. They are published by John C. Winston, World Book Company, Ginn & Co., Charles Scribner & Sons, Florida School Supply Company, Benjamin Sanborn & Co., A. S. Barnes, and the American Cyclopedia Company have no exhibit. The books are for primary, elementary, and high school grades, and professional subjects. Miss Hester Strong, who keeps the exhibits, says that all teachers who attend summer school, as well as those who do not, are invited to look over the exhibits.

Little Time Between Schools as Winter Yields to Summer

Tallahassee had hardly seen the last of the winter term students depart before the campus was again occupied. About 700 had enrolled by Wednesday for the summer session, which began Monday, June 10.

Most of the students arrived the first part of the week, although some came as late as last week-end.

All day Monday and the following morning students registered, arranged their courses, and attended to the business details of entering. Although classes began Tuesday afternoon, long lines of students were still seen patiently, or more often impatiently, waiting their turn to be registered.

At re-convention Tuesday noon, Dr. Edward Conrad, President, conducted the devotionals and announcements were made by the Deans.

Wednesday was the first complete day of regular classes. Due to late arrivals and students rearranging their courses, classes were not really organized until the second week.

Many of the regular professors are back; lecturers and instructors from other colleges are filling vacant positions or offering new courses. Several series of lectures will be given during the term.

The summer session will continue through August 2.

DEGREE HOLDERS TO BE REGISTERED

The Placement Bureau does not register Summer School students unless you are a regular F. S. C. W. student and expect to receive a degree this summer.

Notices of any vacancies which we cannot fill with graduates who are enrolled with the Bureau will be posted on the Bulletin Board for your benefit.

We have over two hundred graduates who have not yet been placed and the majority of the calls we receive are for candidates who hold a degree.

ARTHUR WILLIAMS, Chairman.

ISABEL K. WALLACE, Executive Secretary. June 10, 1929.

Bryan Turns Out as Campus Melting Pot For Summer Students

Room assignments reveal a well distributed arrangement for the convenience of the students. Twenty-four percent are registered in Bryan Hall, including two married couples, ten men, and fourteen faculty members. Broward has one hundred and twenty-five, Gilchrist two hundred and fifty, and Jennings three hundred and ninety-eight. The Social Directors in charge are Mrs. Lottie L. Wimberly and Mrs. T. M. Moore, Bryan and Broward; Mrs. Margaret Shaw Saynor and Mrs. Minnie Davis, Gilchrist; Mrs. Flossie Macdonald Currie and Mrs. Louise Trawick, Jennie Murphree. Mrs. Eva Mosley Belinger is Office Secretary for all the halls.

In addition to the dormitories, about twelve off-campus houses, including four sorority houses, are occupied by college students. There are thirteen in the Alpha Omicron Pi house, two at the Alpha Gamma Delta house, fifteen at the Pi Beta Phi house, four at the Delta Zeta house, and about sixteen in various other. (Continued on Page 3.)

Y.W.C.A. HOLDS EXERCISES.

Sunday morning at 9 o'clock the Y. W. C. A. held the first of its weekly devotional exercises in the chapel. Miss Elise Moore was the speaker, her subject being "Life Abundant."

This devotional hour will be conducted throughout the summer session.

REGISTRATION IS NEAR 800 MARK

May Exceed That of Last Summer Says Office

Registration for summer school has almost reached the 800 mark, according to an estimate given by the business office.

The summer school of 1928 had a registration of 766 and the final estimate of this year's attendance is expected to exceed that number by a small margin.

Six hundred and twenty of the students are registered in the dormitories and the rest are living at various houses off-campus which are acceptable to the college.

Although the summer session is over, the men are few and far-between. There are probably only about 20 men attending summer school.

Summer school offers many courses. Courses are offered leading to preparation for all kinds of teachers' certificates, including special education. The College of Arts and Sciences, School of Music, School of Education and School of Home Economics give courses leading to all degrees offered in the regular catalog.

FLASTACOWO OPEN TO SUMMER STUDENTS

Who wants to board the truck for Flastacowo? One can swim and row to one's heart's content. Hungry? Well I guess you will be. That all to dinner from the canteen by those who are doing kitchen duty until it is your turn, will ring like music in your ears. See Miss Norma Bamer, the dietitian, and let her arrange for the delicious food that you'll be longing for after that exhausting swim. Only a nominal fee is charged for the use of the truck and the food. Shall we stay for the week-end? Sure, the canteen has both cooking and sleeping facilities.

Don't forget your permission slip from Bryan Hall Office so that you will have no difficulty in entering the gate.

BUILDINGS READY BY FALL.

The new library will be ready for use by the time school begins in the autumn, according to Miss Richardson, Librarian.

The new gymnasium will be ready by November, according to Miss Montgomery, Physical Education Director.

BETTER THAN EVER.

The opening of the summer session at this college reveals an enrollment promising to be even larger than that of last year, swelling up into the dot mark. It is a significant fact that there are more graduate students and more of the regular winter students here than has ever been known before, showing something of the increased facilities and demand for higher learning.

With the course of time that may come the day when this college remains open the year round, having a system of four quarters during the year, and keeping on a steady run. This has its advantages, especially for the student who by some illness or misfortune is forced to lose a part of a term, thus making her out of step with all her classmates. The college does not long remain at rest, opening from commencement of winter school, through the period of the short course year, and thence summer school. It is almost a beehive of industry.

SMOOTH RUNNING.

The casual visitor would see almost no break in routine between the two sessions of school at this college, were he to stroll in unwarned. With only two weeks between the schedule of things has slipped into place, with almost remarkable ease. Examination of the registration cards shows a higher percentage of winter students in attendance than has ever been here before. First-hand observation reveals a number of graduates back to take up some additional phase along which they went in their four-year stay. All in all, there is one fact most strikingly predominant. The levels of the summer school are being raised to higher standards with the attendance of more highly trained persons. Another bit of such evidence is brought out by the fact that there are many who are returning each successive year. An atmosphere of dead earnestness is prevalent among the summer students. Each has come with some definite purpose in mind and each will do his best to mould the course of time to harmonize with that purpose. A word of encouragement and good will is fitting at the opening of the summer session.

Smith—Say, what college is this we are attending, Jones?
Jones—Search me, Smith, I didn't catch the name either—Pomona, Samson.

SCRAMBLED EDUCATION.

Dear Max:

You should be powerful glad that the weekly distance test you outlined and kept you away from this summer school. In no uncertain terms, sister, it's a pain—

For the past week we have been having endurance tests to determine how many days a person can stand in line before losing her equilibrium. We've got those fellows in the airplane test beat a little when it comes to enduring endurance, and we don't have cushions to sit on nor other ways to ride on either. I haven't seen anyone 'round here working but Dean Sally. So far I haven't been able to tell which he's working the more—his office hours or his tongue—you remember Dr. Dodd—well, Dean Sally has him slumped in a city block when it comes to arguing with you about your courses.

I get so peeved with these committees. How do they expect a person to know what she wants to take until she has seen that course. Now, the courses this summer have plenty of good looks in them. Dr. Rogers is no longer by himself in that respect. Well, as I say, I visited 'round 'th I spotted all the good-looking professors and signed 'em up. About the only time I ever get to look at a good-looking man for an hour at a time is in class in summer school, so why turn down this opportunity? You know, the old saying, that opportunity knocks at your door once. Well, I'm leaving mine wide open, so he won't have to knock, he can just walk in.

Today was the last day you could change your course without departing with hard cash. As you know, that automatically puts a quietus on the possibility of other chances for me. If I had seen the first day of school what I have seen all this week, I would not have changed so much. If the committee would put the picture of the professor by the course he is to give, it would help matters, I'm sure.

There's about a dozen co-eds here, but you can't get within smiling distance of any of them, thus are so shy. They'll probably get used to us before summer is over. Maybe that's why their mothers sent them here.

Now, ole' dear, write me everything that happens in the town while I'm gone. Don't let it pass it's last breath, and if it does, postmark the letter 'till I get back—so, that isn't convoluted, just a little self-respect. At any rate, I believe that even uninteresting courses, even if they are accompanied by five miles of parallel, beat a dead town for summer recreation.

It's time for the mail, which means I had better go over and dust out my box. Should I get

CLUB BOYS CAMP AT PLASTACOWO OPEN

Camp Plastacowo is being occupied this week by the 4-H Club boys of Leon and Jefferson counties, who are under the supervision of County Agents, G. C. Hodge of Leon County, and L. H. Finlayson of Jefferson County. Fifty-six of these boys who are active in the agricultural club work in each of these counties are attending this annual educational and recreational camp as a reward for their efforts throughout the past year. Leon County Club Boys won more prizes at the last state fair than did any other county club boys in the state.

"Poverty is no disgrace," mused the collegian, "but that's about all I can say in its favor."

ORGANIZES CHORUS HERE

Professor E. O. Bangs Resumes Position as Head Voices Dept.

Professor E. O. Bangs, who is head of the voice department in music, has organized a chorus composed of 20 voices, which will give several programs during summer school. This chorus is practicing on Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays of each week in Room 8 of the Administration Building. All those who are interested in voice production, and who would like to try for this chorus are urged to go to Professor Bangs' office in Room 8B, below the auditorium, for a tryout.

Professor Bangs was for nine years director of female mixed choruses at the Idaho State University. He has been in New York for the past year on a leave of absence from the Florida State College for Women studying the principals of tone production under Vestta Grifith.

Professor Bangs is also conducting a class in the principals of voice.

Johnson and Rabold From Alabama School Offer Courses Here

Mrs. Marietta Johnson and Mr. Charles Rabold of the School of Organic Education of Fairhope, Ala., are instructing some very interesting courses on this campus for three weeks. Mrs. Johnson has been director of the School of Organic Education at Fairhope, Ala., for 22 years. This is a private experimental school and a very interesting one as all those who have enrolled in her courses or heard her lectures have learned. She writes that organic education means "the school program must meet the need of the growing child."

She is giving two courses in education, one being a course in the principles of education, "The Development of the Child," and the other one being on advanced course, "The Interpretation of Nature." Many also have enrolled her lectures, "Education in Life" and "The Story of the Fairhope School."

Two hundred students, ranging from kindergarten to college students, are enrolled at this school at Fairhope. A very interesting and unusual feature of this school is its lack of several features that one is accustomed to associating with schools. It has no grades, no credits, no promotions and no examinations.

Mr. Charles Rabold, Assistant Director of the School of Organic Education, is here representing the English Folk Dance Society in the United States and Canada. All those who can should avail themselves of the opportunity of enjoying his courses in country dancing and folk singing.

On Monday and Thursday evenings, June 17 and 20, Mr. Rabold will conduct open dancing classes for all at the gymnasium.

He states that he believes that folk art is fundamental in its approach to expression because folk singers or dancers do both primarily for the sake of the expression and gave no attention to admiration it might provoke and with no sense of gain; and that folk dancing makes for self-consciousness, true grace and poise.

Eight years ago, Miss Katie Montgomery, head of the Physical Education Department, was instrumental in securing the services of Mr. Rabold on this

First Artist Series Given Wednesday Eve By Miss McClaran

Miss Gay McClaran, entertainer, delightfully impersonated the characters in the play, "Thought and Faid For," on Wednesday evening, June 19, in the College Auditorium. Her interpretation of the various characters in the play could not be excelled. This play is one of the greatest comedy characterizations on the stage. The impersonation of the humorous character, Jimmy Gilly, a shipping clerk, was especially enjoyable.

SPOKEN ENGLISH OFFERED.

With the rise in importance of dramatics in our schools and colleges, comes the demand for teachers who are capable of directing the dramatic productions of their schools. Mrs. Mary H. Buford, of the Spoken English Department, is offering several courses which train one for this newly-developed function of the teacher. Mrs. Buford will present several productions in the Little Theatre, the program of which will soon be ready for publication.

GRADUATE STUDENTS HERE.
THAT are about 20 students registered in the graduate school here this summer, according to a report of Dr. Finer, chairman of the graduate committee.

houses, making a total of sixty persons with rooms of the campus.

Mrs. Sloane says that she and her corps have spent a busy week organizing and making adjustments, and, although many changes have been made, they have been, for the most part, agreeable and satisfactory. Fortunately, owing to the ample room space available, the comforts and convenience of everyone have been well-cared for, and all requests for single rooms have been filled.

The social parlors in Gilchrist and Jeanie Murphree Halls, which are now open to summer school students for the first time, and Bryan Hall Atrium, are an attractive feature of the residence halls. These parlors have been made homelike and inviting to every possible respect, and everything has been done to make the college life enjoyable and conducive to the best quality of combined work and recreation.

HOLO TEA IN DORMITORY.

An informal tea, for the purpose of getting acquainted and of enhancing the spirit of sociability on the campus, was given for the students of the summer session last Friday afternoon from 3 until 6:30 o'clock, in the Jennie Murphree parlors. The affair was fostered by the Y. W. C. A. organization of F. S. C. W. and Mrs. Flossie M. Currie and Mrs. Louise Trawick, Social Directors of Jennie Murphree Hall, acted as hostesses.

The guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Trawick, who ushered them into the parlors, where she presented them to Mrs. Currie, who was at the head of the receiving line. Mrs. Currie then introduced them to the others composing the receiving line, who were in the order of their respective positions. Dr. Edward Connell, President of the College; Miss Louise Connell, daughter of the President; Mrs. Charlotte M. Beckham, Dean of Students; Miss Alice Shepherd, Y. W. C. A. Secretary; Mrs. Virginia T. Sloane, Director of Residence Halls, and Miss Irene Brunson, President of the Y. W. C. A.

When they had reached the end of the receiving line, the guests were ushered into one of the ante parlors where some of the Y. W. C. A. girls served them with delicious punch and nearrooms. Then, they were left free to meet and converse with their friends, old and new, to make new acquaintances, and to have an all-round social good time. An atmosphere of friendliness, hospitality and real welcome was prevalent, so that the affair was, considering the purpose for which it was given, successful in its entirety.

The tea was originally scheduled to be held in the Sunket Garden in front of Bryn Hall, but the uncertain state of the weather made it advisable for the place to be changed. However, no regrets were entertained because of this fact, for the Jennie Murphree parlors, which are beautifully appointed throughout, are entirely new to most of the summer school students, and the guests were glad of the opportunity to enjoy the occasion in so novel and charming a setting.

Among the more distinguished guests present were Dr. O. G. Kendrick, of Infirmary fame; Miss Elsie Moore, Methodist student pastor, and Miss Mary Stenulis, of the Home Extension Department.

PLAN FALL ENROLLMENT.

Physics Lab. Increases Storage for Equipment.

During the summer fall the physics department is preparing to care for the anticipated heavy enrollment next fall. About 600 cubic feet of additional enclosed storage space for apparatus is being built in. The photometric darkroom is to be equipped for photographic work in connection with the X-ray studies and experimental camera studies to be carried on next year. During the past year some 150 students of physics and astronomy were enrolled. According to Dr. Richards, matters had reached such a point that the apparatus would have to be hung from the ceiling for lack of sufficient storage space. But with the new facilities now being provided and with the addition of a new instructor, the department will find itself better than ever prepared to handle the rapidly increasing enrollment in physics and astronomy. Although floor space in the laboratory is not as great as the amount of equipment and of work done required in the average laboratory, it is used so efficiently that the work is done as well as in a larger laboratory.

N. E. A. MEET TO BE HELD IN ATLANTA

Fifty Plan to Attend From Florida State College

About fifty teachers and students are expected to attend the meeting of the National Education Association in Atlanta next week, estimates Dr. R. L. Eymann, professor of education.

All students of the summer school who are experienced teachers in service will be permitted to attend the meetings, and will be given excuses from all classes missed, provided they make arrangements with their instructors.

Round trip rates to Atlanta are being offered by the Atlantic Coast Line Railway Company on the identification plan. Stop-overs will be allowed at all points, coming or going. However, F. S. C. students are advised not to stay longer than Tuesday, so will probably not be able to take advantage of this opportunity.

Among those from the college who are planning to go are: Miss Alice Lea Fulton, principal of the Demonstration School; Jean N. M. Bailey, of the School of Education; Dr. M. H. DeGraff, Dr. R. L. Eymann, and Miss Maude Schwabauer, professors of Education; Miss Virginia Moore, Home Demonstration agent; Mrs. Leland Lewis; Miss Jewell Swain, and Mrs. E. Richey Clawson.

Others Tallahassee who are expected to attend are: C. M. Miles, state superintendent of physical education; B. O. Smith, superintendent of city schools of Tallahassee; H. C. Carpenter, state superintendent of vocational rehabilitation; W. S. Cawthon, state superintendent of public instruction; J. S. Rickard, executive secretary of the State Education Association.

RESORT TO HEAT FOR WEATHER CONDITIONS

After several days of very bad weather we were glad to see the sun shining again this morning. The dampness inside the building was becoming a problem; doors were swollen and wedged, blackboards and chalk were damp, books, typewriters, furniture, etc., were being damaged. Yesterday the heat was turned on to dry out the building, and as the windows were in most cases closed, the rooms were uncomfortably warm and stuffy.

STAFF ASK CONTRIBUTIONS

Summer School this week entered its third week. Most of us have come to realize that summer school is really no joke even though some of us possibly came under that delusion. The Summer School Student, official organ of the Summer School is fast getting organized, and the staff wishes to take this opportunity to extend to you a hearty and cordial welcome. Due to the wide range in ages and in interests, it will be almost impossible to make The Student the ideal publication for all of you. The staff, however, will do its best to make the publication a success. With the co-operation of everyone, we feel confident that we will be able to put out a creditable sheet.

If any student can suggest anything that will make the paper a better or more rounded one, it will be appreciated. Since the paper is essentially for the students of Florida State College, to be successful, it must be of interest to all.

LET'S FACE FACTS

A great majority of the summer school students is made up of experienced teachers and others who are desirous of teaching. By the time a person is old enough to qualify as an instructor it seems that an ethical code will have been formed. But there are evidences of inconsistency on the campus at present.

Since the beginning of the summer term a number of things such as clothing, money, jewelry, and books have been disappearing. As everyone realizes, it is impossible to call this anything but stealing.

It is things like these which injure the reputation of a school or college. Other than breaking down the morale of a group of students, there is much other unpleasantness connected with a matter of this kind. Who wants to leave his room with a feeling of uncertainty and wondering what will be missing upon his return?

The only way to remedy this is for the stealing to stop. That means every student will have to observe and respect the rights and property of others.

Will everybody do it?

"No one is to be allowed to leave the scene of the murder!"

A small individual slides toward the door.

"Hey, where you going?"

"Oh, I was just going to run down to the corner."—M. I. T. Voo Doo.

SCRAMBLED EDUCATION

June 27, 1929.

Dear Mag:—

When I conceived the idea of calling this a Summer School? Anyone with just ordinary intelligence who had been here five minutes would know by the heads of perspiration on her brow that it wasn't a Winter School. People do queer things, even in college, don't they?

A lot of the old girls are back setting what Dr. Eymann calls a "cross cultural" back-around. Almost every day I see someone I haven't seen before. I ran into Brurie and Harriett the other day. If they had had on their caps and bows, I'd have declared they were coming for me to raid me before Exec. That's how natural they look even the 'bo' both of 'em are the proud possessors of long curly locks.

The girls tell me they are still arguing about their courses. I bet none of 'em win. You know, Mag, that's one reason this school never turns out any women lawyers. If a girl ever thought she could put up a reputable plea, one visit to anyone of these committeemen so thoroughly convinces her, that she can't until she wonders why she ever entertained the idea of studying law. So she signs up for Physical Ed. instead.

The Sunken Gardens in front of Bryan Hall are and so populated with mixed congregations as they were last week. Some one says it's because the representatives have come home. I feel one of 'em the other night. If you ask me my honest opinion I think he was sure of a misrepresentation but otherwise, boiling it down to hard facts, he was decidedly a back number.

Speaking of Representatives and the like I wish they had passed a bill appropriating money to buy all the girls in Gilchrist and Jenny Margrave some roller skates which they might use in order to get to classes on time. Honestly we have to start in, begin to go ten minutes before the others think about it. Even then we are always late. Then Tessora gets cross, and grades tumble.

Talking about distances, Gilchrist Hall is in the center of activity compared to the new gymnasium. It looks like it's some where over in a county adjoining, this one—it's so far away. The other day I saw a crowd of men putting down some spikes and rail-like-looking material. I thought they were fixing to build a trolley line in the new gym, but it turned out to be pavement which runs round in circles in front of Gilchrist—the dress runs, Mag, on the pavement you understand. It's awfully hard to try to explain how things are round here. There is so much of it until you just get mixed up.

You should have been here last week and heard a lady give a play in chapel all by herself.

The lady wasn't alone, Mag—there were lots of people in the Chapel, but what I mean is, she wasn't assisted by anyone when she gave the play. She impersonated the male characters with quite as natural and with as much ease as she did the female. It was wonderful. I bet she never worried about not having dates when she was young, 'cause if she didn't have one, all she had to do was to talk like Tom, Dick or Harry, and presto—she fooled herself into thinking she was dated. That's the way she did us the other night. I thought sure there was five people on the stage and that two of 'em were men.

I'm advertising my mail box for rent. I don't seem to need it, you don't ever write me. I can't imagine anyone being so foolishly rushed in a dead South Florida town in the summer time. You must be attending funerals.

Yours in general delivery.

—CO-EDDIE

Misses Mary and Rebecca Waldrop, Winter Haven, were campus visitors this week-end.

CO-ED GOSSIP

Dear Bill:—

Since I was a small child I have wondered why Greek men were presented to ladies instead of vice versa. I have spent hours on end pondering the problem, but it remained only as clear as the widely known and highly famed mud. It would certainly be easier to present the lady, she being so much danner. Finally I resolved to appeal to a woman and get her view (not thought; women don't think) on the matter.

I betook myself to one of the Greek letter houses and called a conference. When all the fair (sarcasm) damels were assembled, I put the question to them. I didn't really expect any results; how could I—from women! Imagining my embarrassment at the incredulous and pitying looks they gave me (What! Me run? Never! I blushed a Murad.) Then one of them, I think it was Doris, explained the matter to me so easily that I was dumfounded.

"You see," she said, "if someone says to a lady—I want you (Continued on Page 11)

$400,000.00 is Given By Legislature to Schools of Florida

The last act which the two legislative bodies of Florida passed during the twenty day extra session, greatly increased the general appropriations for Florida State College for Women. The amount appropriated for current expenses only, amounted to fifty thousand dollars more than did the entire amount appropriated for the current expenses and the buildings two years ago.

In addition to this a large percentage of the $400,000 which was appropriated to the four state institutions for buildings, is to come to Florida State College for Women. A bill was introduced in the Senate to rule that this amount be divided as follows: Forty-six percent to the University of Florida, forty percent to Florida State College for Women, seven percent to the Florida State School for the Deaf and Blind, and the remaining seven percent to go to the Florida Agricultural and Mechanical College for Negroes. The two legislative bodies voted to let the matter of divisions remain with the Board of Control. A vote was taken, however, and both bodies concurred in that such a division would be fair to each institution.

This $400,000 is to be derived from the six cent gas tax. The remaining revenue from this tax is to be applied to the secondary schools of the State.

AND BY THEIR HOSE YE SHALL KNOW THEM

In Tallahassee when Conklin the Silent was Chairman of Judiciary. It came to pass that there was a company of maides who, being sore stricken with the spruce wrath of weather, did ware socks but no hose.

And when Ye Campus Social Committee saw these things they were filled with much horror and did fall in a swoon. And when they woke they were sore vexed and after pondering well, decided to cause this thing to stop.

Then did Florentine Holmes, Chairman of this Committee, arise and make known that all must ware hose beneath their socks. Then she sawed and all was well and the event was nixed abroad.

At the summer term it came to pass that the stern visage of Conklin being about the camps, the maides again did ware no hose. Then was the admonition repeated for all to hear.

But he it known that at this time there were men, also, and no reference was made concerning their clothing. And when the maides noted this they disputed the question but resolved to ware hose and so did they, and all is well.

Thus endeth my tale. Having spelled over a book on the ethics of journalism, wherein it did say not to use over-curious words which could not be understood by common folk, I have reduced and translated this event into our English, not over rude or curious but in such terms as shall be understood by all.

Dr. Dinner: Now there is one thing I wish to impress on your minds always come to class with your assignments well prepared. Er, where does the assignment begin to-day?

DR. BELLAMY, DR. KURZ STUDY CYPRESS TREES

Large and ancient cypress trees were the quest of Dr. Raymond Bellamy and Dr. Herman Kurz, when they invaded the swamps in Gulf Hammock and other swamps of Florida during the vacation between winter and summer schools.

Dr. Kurz is to write an article about the large and old cypress trees of Florida for "Florida Beautiful." Dr. Kurz and Dr. Bellamy made studies of the growth rings of large stumps and trees throughout the swamps and the results will be published in Dr. Kurz's article.

The Sigma Kappa House on West Park Avenue is a brick structure of English design and will cost $23,000, complete.

Both of these buildings will be ready for occupancy by the winter term of school.

As soon as the funds are available sidewalks will be put down in the rear of the History, Science, and Library buildings, said Mr. Kellam.

She was a member of the Zeta Tau Alpha society. After her graduation, Mrs. Haun received a scholarship to the Chautauque Conservatory of Music. After finishing there, she went to New York City, where she studied under able instructors. Since then, she has taken part in Palestine and other musical societies with great success.

Mrs. Haun rendered the following program in a flexible, lyrical manner:

MAKING NEW CONTACTS

This week marks the end of the first half of the summer session. Just how well we have spent this time and to what extent we have been beautifully reminded for each of us to answer.

Summer school is not a place for a good time in the sense that the high school junkie calls a good time. It is a place where great satisfaction is obtained by feeling that one is broadening one's outlook on life through the various channels offered during the session.

One of these channels is getting acquainted with next-door neighbors. Do you spend some of your leisure hours making new acquaintances? The question may be asked, does a college student have any leisure time? Before that question can be answered another will have to be asked. What is a good definition of leisure time? "Time spent in unemployment," and "spare time" are dictionary definitions. Time not spent in the classroom or in study would probably be leisure time for the college student. According to that, every student has some spare time. How could it be spent more profitably than in getting acquainted with our fellow students and our instructors?

Some one has said, "I'm a friend to the animals and birds; it's only to human beings I have to be introduced." Conventions may have had a great deal to do with that statement. It is true that it is used to be improper to speak to any one without first having a formal introduction, but along with everything else that has changed to a great extent, especially since most of us travel quite a bit. Formal introductions are no longer requisites for getting acquainted with others.

We have only four more weeks in which to make new contacts. Let's not let the opportunities pass like "ships in the night."

I soon learned that: The Administration building is the place that physics is administered.

The auditorium is a place we go when we crave lunch, to take lessons in lip reading from the Deans.

A college degree is the adopted standard of measurement of distances at colleges. For instance, there are several degrees to travel from a Freshman English class to Dean Sallee's office.

One horsepower is the power exerted when 225-pound gets in physics class runs upstairs.

The entrance to the library is a part of the gymnasium.

SCRAMBLED EDUCATION

Dear Mag:

We had so much liquid atmosphere last week, and are eliminating so much perspiration this week, until my mind is fairly milkweed. No doubt this letter will illustrate to the Nth degree, the work of a soggy brain, which is an adequate description of mine at present.

We are having some nice lectures now. I heard three last Sunday morning. If that isn't selling your money's worth, what is it? One point Dr. Rogers brought out particularly interested me. He said that the Bible is the greatest textbook in the world. He proved that it could be used for literature, philosophy, sociology, psychology, etc. Now wouldn't that be a fine thing if this College would adopt the Bible for a text book? Just think how much we'd save on our books—mine have already cost me $10, and I'm not through buying yet. A little later in the morning during another lecture I heard Dr. Eymao say that he thought the Bible should be used in school. Now if we could just manage to get these two men on the curriculum committee we girls might be able to carry four straight classes every day and not be exhausted as we are now, from lugging text books around. It would be a great physical help to my nothing of the rush if I would save us. It isn't the courses that are heavy, it's the text books.

Nothing of much importance has happened this week. We did have an interesting musical revival, given by a 14-year old boy, who played the violin backwards. He played well, and would have played much better, I imagine, if he had not been forced to stop and tune his instrument after every piece. His violin just would not stay tuned. Somebody ought to give him a better one.

I've at last purchased all my books, which means that I am worse than broke. I am in debt. I heard Dr. Rogers say a few days ago that the Bible was the greatest textbook on earth. He said that it would be useful as a text for English literature, history, sociology, psychology and the like. This statement struck me as being quite practical. If some way, to get Dr. Rogers on the Curriculum Committee, we wouldn't have to buy so many books to lug to classes. Then we would be able to carry more courses. It isn't the courses that's heavy, it's the textbooks.

CO-ED GOSSIP

I am just now beginning to realize that I am very much out of place. All the ladies around here give me that hostile supercilious what-are-you-doing here look that nearly stifles me. I think though I am, my bearing the brunt of such sharp glances is taking up roses and leaving me jaded cheeks. When they put that slim at the gate, "Florida State College for Women," they should have mobilized the women, or rather outlined them.

Pardon us, Ladies, but it has only been by the dint of much struggle, that we, the co-eds of this jolly institution have gained the privilege of writing in this column. We now solemnly announce that we intend to use this column as our own instrument of virtue, and if necessary, for the bite of our vindictive powers. Pause a moment, the struggle that we referred to was only verbal. It is only to correct girls wherein it is a good policy to strike them. As it happened the ones of whom we speak became corrected before we struck. Lucky they were!

But before your ire becomes fully aroused, let us paint a picture for you. We are really great artists if you like pictures in mud. We also know the mysteries of light, especially moonlight. It will be necessary that you let your imagination fill in the vacant spots in this picture if you are to appreciate the tragedy of it. This means that your imagination will be sorely strained to fill in so many vacant spots, but we hope that it will recover. We don't think that girls have very much imagination anyway. Consequently there won't be so much to strain. So if your imagination is the only thing about you that is weak in that particular avenue of the body, you will be all right as long as you remain in a community where there is a female majority. It is only by comparison with men the women suffer from their inferiorities (Certainly, the women's).

Picture this if you can. A poor innocent prospectore co-ed stands before the imposing entrance of the college. It seems that he is frightened horribly. He quakes like an aspen tree.

Says Men Tend to Dress Carelessly in Girls' Colleges

Does teaching in a girls' school tend to make a man slovenly in his dress?

Dr. Raymond Bellamy, professor of sociology, thinks it does, to judge from certain remarks made by him in an anthropology class Wednesday morning.

According to Dr. Bellamy, instructors in boys' schools have a certain standard already set for them by their students, while in a girls' school there is no standard and because there is no one to set it. Consequently, there is a lack of fastidiousness in the matter of appearance among the few men on the campus.

Notable exceptions are to be found, says Dr. Bellamy, in cases of young, unmarried professors. He also alleges that in proportion as an instructor grows older, he likewise becomes less meticulous. No solution was advanced as to the logic of the last two facts.

In committing himself thus, the esteemed professor of sociology has, unwittingly or otherwise, risked the incurrence of censure on the part of his students. No matter to what degree the girls of F. S. C. W. may regard the truth of his statement, they can hardly be expected to assume wholeheartedly and without malice the responsibility which is thereby laid upon the shoulders of Florida.

It is doubtful whether or not the inference was that girls, whether in this institution or one of its sisters, permit themselves to be less discrimination of the opposite because of the fact that they can't afford to be otherwise. At any rate, Dr. Bellamy remains at present under suspicion. Whether or not he realized that the results of his accusation, if it amounted to such, could possibly prove incriminating is unknown. However, it is assumed for his benefit that his intent was not to willfully foster a revolution of any sort on the part of any quota of his fair students. He purports to have done all the research work within his power as a mere male, and has now relegated the matter to Lenna Charlotte M. Beckham, who, it is hoped, will give a detailed report of her investigation in this regard at a later date.

In the event that Dean Beckham's inquiries prove of a nega-

He rests beneath the soil,
But instead of a lily upon his chest,
He loquaciously holds—a golden rod.

 An aspen leaf in a forty mile an hour gale. He shivers as he reads these words, "Florida State College for Women." After that he really feels out of place. Those words seem to say, "What are you doing here, you big noble hero, in a woman's college." He wonders why the officials did not change those words to "Florida State College for Men and Women," at least for the summer. He can't figure it out. He never will. There is no reason why. They should have.
 The strain is too great. He turns around and starts walking back home. About halfway there, while calmly walking, peace in his heart after his narrow escape, he staggers. He seems to lose his equilibrium. He grabs a nearby tree for support. So mighty is his grab that the uppermost leaves in the tree shake with fright for fear they will be shaken off. (This was not unusual as it was a very small tree.) You wonder if he has not been stricken by apoplexy. Then you remember that he remembers what his dad told him before he left home, "I don't let those girls scare you, son."

The one thing that aqails me, is how these rippling little dandelms love to think that they are getting an education. Every word that drops from an instructor's lips they seem to consider as a diamond from the rough. They immediately write these words down and ponder over them. Finding subtleties when they were not, any not, and never will be. Another thing that worries me is the shortness of the instructor's pants. I guess though they have short pants so that they can have some of them.

One of our poor credidles lost his glasses the other night so he can't see very well. The poor boy, he staggers blindly around, grabs first one girl and then the other, crying, "I've lost my glasses." And the pitiful part is that they all sympathize with him. It really worries us. And to know that he lost those glasses about twelve o'clock at night way out on the quinary road, gives us further pain. Further we know with whom he was. Ah! We are tired, and sleep. We close.

With regrets,

Eddie.

DELEGATES BACK FROM MEETING

N. E. A. Representatives Report Good Trip to Atlanta

One of the most interesting features of the sixteenth annual convention of the National Education Association held in Atlanta, July 1, 2, according to E. Richey (Clausen), was an address expressed by Doctor Russell of Columbia Teachers' College, who said he saw no reason why the United States could not have a department of education with a secretary in the President's Cabinet. He said in this way both liberty and equality could be maintained for American people; that the National Government could take charge of financing the schools and the states and communities could decide what was really needed. (Clausen said that all of the speakers on the subject were against any measure that would give any official power to the National Government concerning the educational plans of the N. E. A. for secondary schools.

The theme of the convention was, "A New Education for a New World."

Dr. Russell, of Columbia, also stated that the colleges graduated more students than can be used in teaching positions and that there should be some means devised by which boys and girls could know whether they really want to go into the teaching field; that they should be able to answer favorably the following questions: "Can I work under supervision? Have I patience to work with children? Can I control myself? Can I adapt myself to schoolroom conditions?"

Dean of Teachers' College of Peabody, Nashville, Tenn., said he had abandoned score cards in his supervision because it took too much time to mark them, and that there were three things he looked for in supervising teachers. First, what is the teacher trying to do? Second, how is she doing it? Third, what results are obtained? He said, "Never be so discourteous to a teacher as to take into a room after class is called or to leave before it has been dismissed."

Robert E. Moton, principal of the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, gave a talk concerning the education of the negro race.

Religious addresses were given by Francis J. McConnell, bishop

JULY 13 LAST DAY TO ORDER CAP AND GOWN

July 13, is the last day in which orders for senior caps, gowns, and hooda may be placed, according to an announcement of Lillian Finner, who is in charge of this work.

Only seven orders have been placed so far and as the time is rapidly drawing near for closing the orders, Miss Finner especially urges that the seniors attend to this matter at once.

Prices are as follows: Cap and gown, $2.00, hood and gown, $2.50, $1.00 being made upon the return of the hood.

Doctor P. F. Finner Talks on Life Values At Y. W. Sunday

What are the permanent values of life? This question was addressed by Dr. P. F. Finner, head of the psychology department, Sunday morning at Y. W. C. A.

"There are things in life we can't live. Even though explaining the change, facts remain the same," said Dr. Finner. Some of these values he mentioned are a large faith, good work, making use of obstacles and dignity of personal life.

Y. W. C. A. services are conducted every Sunday morning at 9:00. All are invited to attend.

PICNIC PARTY GOES TO LANARK SATURDAY

A party of college students and members of the personnel spent last Saturday afternoon and evening at Lanark on the golf. The outing was sponsored by Miss Helen Hunt, head nurse at the Infirmary.

The crowd left Tallahassee shortly after two o'clock in the afternoon in cars provided by the men in the party. They reached Lanark at about four o'clock. After a period of swimming, a picnic lunch was enjoyed.

On the return trip, a short stop-over was made at Panacea. According to all reports from the participants, the trip was most successful from the standpoint of the amusement derived.

Those who went were: Dean Charlotte M. Beckham, Miss Rev. Caldwell, and Misses Margaret Maxwell, Olla Harris, Blanche Carter, Bernice Hook, Edna Wolfe, Jim Miller, Frances Greene and Fyriselle Gable.

Dr. O. G. Kendrick, Dr. Isabel Wallace and Miss Lula Nicholson joined the party in the evening.

SATURDAY'S ACTIVITIES

Tomorrow's recreational activities will be many and varied and those who wish to go somewhere or to do something will have plenty of things from which to select.

A hike will begin in the morning at six o'clock. The trip is to be to the Ravine, starting from the gymnasium.

A sightseeing tour to places of interest in the community will begin at nine o'clock beginning in front of Bryan Hall. At two-thirty, there will be swimming at Lake Bradford. Those who wish to make any of these trips may sign up at Bryan Hall.

DOROTHY DODD NEW HISTORY INSTRUCTOR

A new history teacher, Miss Dorothy Dodd, daughter of Dean W. G. Dodd, has taken a class in Early European History, and a class in Later European History. These classes were held the first month by Mr. Arthur Williams, and Mr. R. C. Cotterill, but were found much too large, so they were divided and Miss Dodd was secured to conduct them.

Miss Dodd received her Master's degree in History last June from this college. Her thesis had for its subject, "The Early Railroads of Florida." Miss Dodd will teach History in Pensacola High School next term.

Magicians' Act Will Be Part Playgroup Program on July 19

Magicians, Claude and Harry McAnce, will give an "entertaining" act next Friday evening, July 19, at 7:30, in the gymnasium as part of the program of the evening, sponsored by the playgroup class in physical education.

There will be several special features of entertainment between the magicians' acts in the gymnasium after which all who desire will board the F. S. C. honeymoon express. There will also be games on campus for those who do not care to board the honeymoon express.

EXAMS IN EDUCATION COURSES ON JULY 23

Dean N. M. Salley announces that students desiring to take examination for credit on Education I and Education II may take this examination on July 23rd, at 7:00 P. M., in room 21-E.

ROE AND FANGER COMPLETE WORK

Two Weeks of Intensive P.-T. A. Work Come to a Close

Mrs. E. C. Roe, Field Secretary of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, and Mrs. A. F. Fanger, president of the State Branch, complete their courses here today, after two weeks of intensive work.

The opinion of many taking this course in Parent Teacher work is that it was highly instructive and of great value to teachers and those intending to become teachers. This course has been offered for the past four summers at the University of Florida, but this is the first time it has been offered here.

Twenty-five were enrolled for credit in the 9 o'clock class for advanced students, while many others attended as visitors. In the afternoon review class about seventy-five were enrolled. Mrs. Fanger states that these students represented a wide area of territory in Florida from Miami to Jacksonville and from Jacksonville to Pensacola.

Mrs. Roe states that she has given courses in every state in the Union except California. She came from here to the University of New Jersey and from there to the University of North Carolina, each place a three weeks' course in giving. Mrs. Fanger goes from here to Jacksonville, where she will meet with the Educational Survey Commission and from there she will go to Miami on July 15, to attend the Florida Education Association, which was called by Secretary of F. E. A. James Rickard.

Mrs. Fanger says that in 1920, Florida had only 263 members in Parent-Teacher Associations and now there are 19,417 members in Florida. She further states that: "The foundation studies of the Parent-Teacher Association are better trained parents, and a closer relation between the home and the school. The programs, activities and projects of P. T. A. must be based upon the seven cardinal principles of education: Health, citizenship, vocation, learning, leisure, culture and character."

Dean Salley is making plans for this work to be continued next year.

A CHALLENGE

It is such an easy thing to fall into a sort of take-for-granted attitude. We who have been at Florida State College for an entire school year or more are so accustomed to the place, the location of the halls and classroom buildings, to the customs and traditions of the college that they have become a second nature or almost a part of us. But what about the summer school student who is here for the first time?

Until a few days ago one of these summer school students was walking each day many steps out of the way to her classes because she did not know of the nearer route. Another searched the campus over for the infirmary and has not found it yet, while still another walked around the dormitories in order to get to the infirmary instead of going through the hall. One of the co-eds went to the business office to get perturbation and to sign up to go to town, not knowing that Bryan hall was the official place for co-eds to sign up and off.

Some will ask for directions as they should do, but others do not ask (cannot we, who have been here longer, come out of our shells a bit more and help when we see an opportunity to volunteer a bit of needed information that will make some student's life on the campus a little more pleasant?

Our not belonging to the Boy Scouts does not of necessity prevent us from doing our good deed each day. How much it would be appreciated to offer our services to anyone whom we happen to see wandering around aimlessly. Chivalry has long since been let die in the men, but shall we let it die in the women also?

NEW PARKING RULE

Cars will not be allowed to be parked on the left of the college circle from now on. Last Friday a truck attempted to pass between some cars parked on each side of the circle, and hit three of them. A pedestrian narrowly escaped getting hit in the smash. The owners of the cars parked on the left could not collect any damages because the cars were parked on the wrong side. No car is supposed to park on the left of any one-way street. With the new regulations in effect the strain of squeezing a car through the small space left between two parked cars will be eliminated and the danger to pedestrians will be lessened.

SCRAMBLED EDUCATION

Dear Mar,

Things are getting more bemuddled every day. I guess it must be on account of the rains—If you get what I mean. Well, anyway, you start up town in fair weather and come back in a downpour. You go to the library and labor over an assignment only to find the next day that such an assignment was intended for another member of the class. While strolling over to the P. O. you wonder who was mistaken you or the professor just about the time you decide definitely to say the blame on the latter, you spy a letter in your box—the first that's been there for a week—and to your dismay the combination on your box doesn't work. After much awkward patience but inward in disposition you shake the lock open and capture the coveted letter, only to find that it's a notice from the Librarian informing you that a certain book is over due for which please produce cash.

About this time it has stopped raining and you make your way, taking your life in your hands, as you run on rubber heels and slick, wet pavement from the Ad Building to Bryan Hall. Having reached there in safety, you pined your way to Gilchrist, thinking that about the only worthwhile thing in life is food. At this strategic moment, you hear a bell—the bell which announces food. You rush madly down to the dining room to find that the erstwhile tingling rhymes were none other than those of the switch engine on the nearby railroad. Silently condemning bulls in general and those of the switch engine in particular you plod back to your room, fuddled, disappointed, and discouraged. Throwing your self on the bed you cry, "Oh! What's the use?"

Such is the life of a summer school student.

We had a sound and sane Fourth of July. In fact, I can testify that it was sound proof so far as celebrating with fireworks is concerned. You didn't hear a one. I think it must be against the law to shoot 'em on the campus or else the nerds haven't 'em in stock. Whatever the cause they were conspicuous by their absence.

We had some very harmless, soothing, and entertaining games such as watermelon uttine and telling fortunes. The fortune teller told me that I was stung because my thumbs turned backward. I am greatly embarrassed over being stung, but there is consolation in knowing that there's a reason for it.

Only three more weeks to report to roll call, then I'm home-ward bound.

I'll tell then I am as ever.

CO-EDDIE

CO-ED GOSSIP

To the Editor of the Summer School Student:

As an article has already appeared in these columns under the above caption, it may seem that this writer, who is another person, owns an apology for using the same title. However, he contends that none is due as this is the first time that such an article has been written by a genuine co-ed.

Almost anyone could tell by the expressions she (Editor) used that she was not a co-ed, for instance a girl could think of such trivial expressions. Whoever heard of a co-ed enduring such "torture" as she pretends, just because his sex is in the minority, or because his name is not over the gate at the entrance? Why should he let such little things worry him as long as he gets what he wants, viz., no education?

I have an idea that if those girls for which the college was originally founded were working as hard as the few co-eds are, they would not have time to think of such nonsense to write.

Here again, is good proof that one of the co-eds did not write that article.

However, we hope that your picture will not embarrass the lady. We enjoyed her article in some extent and hope that she will come again with some other snappy. We don't object that just as it is not attributed to the wrong hand, in fact, we think we are working so hard that we need something to amuse us to vary the monotony of those articles—it gave us some fun.

Another good thing about the article—it gave us some fun. We would have never known about the jawe fiddle when we saw his glasses if the girl hadn't told it on him. And we hope that it was the girl whom he is friendly that told it on him first. It is the saddest part of the story. Maybe he will be more careful when he picks his girl next time.

In closing, I want to say that we fellows are far from the night that the aforementioned article ascribed to us. It makes us are enjoying our work more. The beautiful scenery, campus and otherwise, together with the

ONE-ACT PLAYS TO BE PRESENTED JULY 18TH

Mary Buford, director of the Student English department, announces the presentation of the one-act plays to be given at the Little Theatre on Thursday evening, July 18, at eight o'clock. The first one, Hunger, a modern morality play, by Eugene O'Neill, is directed by Elizabeth Cameron.

The cast is as follows:
The Beggar (Clifford Stinemet), The Poet (Marion Worrell), The Girl (Eldreda Calwell), The Man (Herbert Munsfeldt), The Satisfied One (Mabel Ward).

The scene is laid in a great city tower beside a dusty road. The time is a day before now. The second production, Overtones, by Alice French, directed by Mabel Ward, is a theatrical morality play of unusual interest and is to be presented by cast possessing outstanding ability, says Mrs. Buford.

The persons of this play are: Betty (Margaret Croy), Harriet, her overtones (Ruth Clark), Mabel (Dorothy Hinger), Margaret, her overtones (Marie News).

An admission of 25 cents will be charged for the above plays. The proceeds are for the benefit of the current expenses of the program of Y. W. C. A. activities during the summer season.

The sale of tickets will be in charge of Irene Irons-on. Get yours early, as only a limited number will be sold.

PARKING RULES ARE TO BE ENFORCED

Contrary to general opinion, it has always been against the college regulations for cars to park on the left of the college circle. Of late there has been a total disregard of this regulation even among the faculty and students who know better. Double parking on such a narrow driveway is dangerous to the students, and makes driving between the parked cars quite a problem.

There have been complaints of damage to parked cars by passing trucks. In every case where the car was parked on the left, no damage could be collected. In addition, the owner of a car parked on the left may be held responsible for damages.

When Mr. Kellon, the business manager of the college, saw the indifference of this way of parking, he had the driveway marked all around on the left and adjacent to the walks—NO PARKING. It is hoped there will be no more violation of this regulation.

COMMUNITY SING HELD LAST NIGHT

A community sing was held in front of Bryan Hall Thursday night at 7:30. Mrs. Gladys Morris Williams, of the history department, accompanied at the piano by Miss Edith Connor, an talented person present with a number of popular selections and old favorites.

These sings are being sponsored every Friday night by the Y. W. C. A. organization on the campus. The amount of the recreational program scheduled for tonight, it was arranged for Thursday night of this week instead.

Everyone is urged to come and to participate every week. The singing is regularly led by Miss Zella Lillian Phillips, professor of public school music.

CITRULLUS CITRULLUS FEED

This afternoon I bled me over to the library and after referring to the Encyclopedia Britannica found that they are defined as the fruit of the cucurbitaceae vine (Citrullus Citrullus). But in common speech they are known as watermelon, which is a term understood by all. And thus, between plain and curious, I stand amazed. But in my judgment, the common and broad term that is daily used is lighter to understand and so I will use that one.

Certainly it is that there was a watermelon spread in the dining room available on the eve of the Fourth of July. And many of the students came, you even the devoted social directors and professors came. And when the slices of watermelon were served without forks or other implement with which we are usually wont to eat, no one touched the lack, but, considering the immaturity of their clothing to the inefficient handkerchiefs, they ate with their fingers, uncleanly gobbling the copious supply of juicy dripping from their neighbors' slices, yea, even likewise did the devoted social directors and professors.

And when medals to the sum of four cents and ten had been eaten they all departed.

And the ruin was told.

NEW LIBRARY TO BE READY BY FALL

Building Will be One of the Finest in the Southeast

The new library building will be ready for use in the fall of 1929, according to a recent announcement. When finished it will be the largest and best equipped library building in Florida, and one of the first modern library buildings in the Southern States. The building provides for a reserved-book reading room, a reference room, a periodical, reading and reference room combined, a cataloging room, work rooms, a browsing room (to be partly furnished by the class of '29), librarian's office, and ample storage space of all kinds.

The east wing of the building will house all circulation books in all-sized, standard book stacks. The stacks will be silver gray with olive green shelves. This color scheme with the gray glazed brick of the rooms will make for a maximum of light in the stacks. These stacks and the equipment for the main floor of the building are being supplied by the Library Bureau, which has equipped ninety per cent of the libraries in the United States.

The third floor of the building will be used for seminar rooms and the browsing room. Eventually, as the college grows, this floor also. To facilitate the use of books in the stacks and to make the library as modern as possible an elevator will be installed when the stacks are completed. At present only two series of stacks are being put in, but provision has been made for five tiers of stacks, reached by both elevator and stairways.

The seating capacity of the building is to be over 750 when completed, but for the present the space in use for the library only will seat approximately 550. The book capacity of the building is 210,000 volumes, including stacks and wall shelving in reading and reference rooms.

The interior decorations are strictly English Tudor. They are very colorful and will add much to the attractiveness of the building when completed. The exterior decorations are in harmony with those inside. The two shields above the entrance of the building should be looked at carefully, for they are the insignia.

CHASE FINDS HIDDEN TREASURE FRI. NIGHT

A treasure hunt sponsored by the Playground Activity class in physical education was enjoyed by many students and faculty members last Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The search began in front of the Administration Building, but many attractive clues directed the participants in various parts of the campus looking for the hidden treasure.

The lucky discoverer was Miss Esther Chase, who found a bag of candy kisses near the swimming pool in the gymnasium. The group then engaged in dancing and games, after which it marched to the dining hall arcade where a feast of watermelon was served.

Faculty-Student Ball Game Won by Faculty on Saturday Morning

"I did it with my little red bonnet," said Dr. H. Kurz last Saturday morning after the faculty had won from the students, 28 to 21.

At the end of the third inning the score was only 7 to 6 in the faculty's favor, but when the teams began making eight runs in a single inning the score increased more rapidly. Shouting, "I've a little psychology on it, Paul!" Knock a homer, Hudson! Come on in, Herman!" the stout faculty members piled up runs until at the end of the seventh inning the score was 28 to 21 in their favor.

Playing on the faculty team were Lewis, Bangs, Kurz, Carter, Moore, Rogers, Brownling, Fox, Finner, Montgomery, Bellamy, Wallace and Arnold. Miss "Katy" Montgomery and Dr. Lewis pitched on the faculty team.

Rice, Clawson, Spencer, Bradlee, Dull, Jones, Cavithon, Monroe, Robinson and Henderson played on the student team. Spencer and Henderson pitched. Two comical plays for the students made home runs and in other ways justified their positions on the team.

Dr. Kurz liberally offered A's to any of his students who would take his picture. Dr. Moore found it effective while playing baseball, to sit on the runners when they reached his base, thus rendering them incapable of further immediate progress.

The students changed their runs to the other hand, trying to overcome the hoodoo cast by Dr. Kurz' vivid headgear but it

Pet Snake of Journalism Class Disappears Tuesday

Somebody abducted our Alex. Alex was left asleep on a table in the Journalism room in the Education Building Tuesday morning, and Alex was gone when his dinner time came. Now this is a deplorable situation, for Alex was the official mascot of the class in Journalism.

Any clues as to Alex's whereabouts should be turned in to Dr. Earl L. Vance immediately. Alex has a delicate stomach and it is feared that he will suffer from indigestion unless he resumes his diet shortly. No reward is offered but it is hoped that Alex will soon be returned to the happy home from which he was so unconventionally removed.

In spite of his fierce appearance, Alex, our pet snake, is not vicious and should not be considered as dangerous. Rhinoceros state that his species (Wooden Block) is one of the most harmless of all the serpents. The entire Journalism class mourns Alex's absence and pleads for his return.

Miss Margaret Whitney Dow, pipe organ instructor, will give the last of her series of organ recitals Sunday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. Miss Dow has given several of these during the summer session which have been appreciated and enjoyed by many members of the student body.

DOCTOR KURZ SPEAKS AT Y. W. C. A. SUNDAY

"Nature and the Man" was the subject of Dr. Herman Kurz, head of the biology department, Sunday morning at the Y. W. C. A. devotional exercises.

"Man's sympathy has developed through the ages. Even the savage demonstrated sympathy for his foe and man today is developing a keener sympathy for his fellow man and for beasts than ever before," says Dr. Kurz.

IN APPRECIATION

The summer session at Florida State College has been made most delightful through the untiring efforts of the Y. W. C. A. in its program of summer activities and by the Physical Education Department with its week-long program of in- and out-door sports, and other sports. Due to the work of these organizations, the summer school students have been simply entertained in a wholesome and a socially interesting manner.

The games in "Rec" the swimming parties to the lake, the hikes before breakfast, the visits to interesting places around Tallahassee, the concert plays, the community sings, the story teller's hour, have been among the things promoted by these organizations.

Added to the above efforts have been the Artist Series and the week-end boat trips to the Gulf sponsored by members of the community. The Artist Series consisted of an impersonation very ably rendered, a violin recital and a voice recital. The boat trips were instructive as well as enjoyable as that was the first time a few members of the party had been on the Gulf, and at the same time students were afforded the opportunity of meeting and knowing the faculty members with whom they had not come in contact.

These organizations are to be commended, as they have made the summer session of 1929 one of pleasant memories.

TEMPERATURE VARIES MUCH IN TALLAHASSEE

Temperature in Tallahassee takes a great drop every night, according to statistics sent out by the U. S. Weather Bureau of Jacksonville to the office of Dr. H. F. Becker, of the Department of Geography. During the five days, July 4 through July 9, the highest point reached during the day was 92 degrees and the lowest point reached at night was 64 degrees. The greatest difference in day and night temperature was on July 5, when the day temperature was 96 degrees and the night temperature fell to 68 degrees.

July and August are the two hottest months of the year and also the two wettest. The average rainfall for the five days examined was 29. The rainfall at this time last year was 27.52, while this year it is only 26.21, which shows that the "rainy season" has scarcely begun. A rainfall of 10 is considered as a desert, while a rainfall of 20 is suitable for agriculture, and so

Ho, ho, ho, Jimmy, poor lad!
If I had you really are
Your kowtow accusation of last week.

Carried things a bit too far.
You should always be careful in venturing your wraith.
Your supposedly manly ire
That you are despatching with a poor ignorant tadpole.

And not with flaming fire.
I relinquished my right to fill this column
With things that are typically male.

To let you have printed for public condemnation
Your pitiful and deplorable tale.
Your bunk served a purpose, though, better by far,
Than displaying your admirable disposition.

It created rather an effeminate language or fire
And I'll work better with such fine opposition!
As a matter of fact though your stuff was but funk,
Your silliness I could almost ignore.

For it created poor, but at least some opposition
Which will be my stepping stone to success!
Your writing of grandiose verbosity
Amused me greatly the while.

For though I knew it was a bomb atrocity
It nevertheless afforded me a smile
If badinage is as you count it useful
Characteristic of the male no bold.

Then since I am already a man
You make me a male twofold!
For though opprobrious notwithstanding you try to control,
Little Jimmy, verily I'll turn you a flip.

For I have utterative deadly persiflage
I can condemn a dozen with you on my hip.
So run along, Jimmy and write me some more
I implicate the children's point of view.

And when you are not have drop around to my room.
You sound so very curious, I'd like to inspect you.
Yours, EDDIE

Florida is placed in the ranks of states whose rainfall is exceptionally good for agriculture.

Tallahassee and its fair roads have the advantage of the coasts of the University of Florida in temperature at least, for, according to statistics of last year's temperatures which were compiled in Dr. H. F. Becker's department, the average temperature of Tallahassee is 67.4 degrees, while Gainesville has a temperature of 70.8.

Considering two of our Florida cities which are in the southern part of the State, we find that Miami had an average temperature of 74.4 degrees and Key West an average of 76.8.

A PAL LIKE YOU

It is great to have a pal like you
When all the world goes wrong.
To know you are steadfast and true
Even after the last bell's gone.

It is fine to have a true friend.
As down life's highway we go.
To know you'll walk to the journey's end,
And the same old faith and trust you'll show.

It is wonderful to have someone
As through life's smiles and tears we stroll,
Who'll bless us for what we've done,
Even though we did not reach our goal.

It is God's gift of friend to man
That's a comfort and a blessing, too,
A faith, a trust, a heart that will understand,
It is great to have a pal like you.

LET ME DREAM AMONG THE HILLS

When the grass is green and growing,
Near the brook that's softly flowing,
While the cooling breeze is blowing,
Let me dream among the hills.

When the wood-ben starts her drumming
For the worm that dreads her coming;
While the bees are busy humming,
Let me dream among the hills.

When the shadows northward turning
Where the Northern Lights are burning
Fill the heart with yearning
Let me dream among the hills.

When the swans are southward speeding
Where eternal summer's leading,
Hear, oh hear my earnest pleading,
Let me dream among the hills.

Men Bear Pain With More Fortitude Than Women, Say Some

"Men bear pain with more fortitude than women," says Dr. B. A. Wilkinson, one of the College physicians. This statement is contrary to the popular belief that women bear pain better than men.

"A woman will call a doctor for a mere trifle, but if a man calls one, the doctor knows he is going to see a sick person," continued Dr. Wilkinson.

It seems that women prove the old saying that "misery loves company" to be true.

"A woman stands illness better when in company with several other women than she does when alone," says Doctor Wilkinson.

He continued, "A man will go and go when he is sick before he will give up, while many women hear of symptom of a disease and imagine they have pity, one of them. If doctors had to depend upon men's illnesses for their profession, they would starve."

Miss Neva Robson, a trained nurse of Pensacola, who is attending Stinson School, agrees with Doctor Wilkinson in many respects.

"Most patients to hospitals are more apprehensive than women. They will endure pain without complaint. They are as helpless as children when they are ill, but they are good children. Women are always wanting something done for them. This is probably due to the fact that men will not give up until they are very ill, while women give up in illness much more readily, and not being very ill are thinking of things they desire," says Miss Robson.

Miss Helen Hunt, head nurse at the College infirmary, does not agree with Doctor Wilkinson and Miss Robson when speaking of nervous patients.

"In nervous sanatoriums men are more nervous than women, although a woman is supposed to have the more delicate nervous system. This has been conceded by the best nerve specialists.

STUDENT'S DAYS BEGIN WITH EARLY MAD RUSH

"It's the pace that kills." At least, many another school student have opinions to that effect in regard to the early morning rush which takes place daily on the campus, even before the earliest class has convened.

At five o'clock, sooner or later, an alarm clock snatches with its insistent summons the first anxious person from the coziness of his into the realization of the harshness of reality and study.

Thereafter the activity increases with a slow but steady impetus until the first bell warning. Then, minute by minute, more and more girls, sleepy-eyed and heavy-lidded, assume once more the burdens of waking consciousness and brace themselves for one more day of summer school life.

With the breakfast bell, thirty minutes later, things move forward at a swiftness accelerated pace. During the ensuing ten minutes, the climax of the before-class drama is reached and, in many instances, capped as last-minute riders dash around in a mad effort to get dressed, or sufficiently so, for breakfast.

However, all these little things which inevitably come up, no matter how much foresight and discretion have been exercised by those who were literally up with the sun. The hurry, the stress, the commotion and the resulting scene is one of bustle and confusion.

When the bell is rung for the dressing, the tension is temporarily relieved. For a period of twenty or thirty minutes, the steady buzz of the breakfast table conversation is accompanied by a symphony rendered in silverware. Then there is a hasty migration of the students, with bumper pressed, from the dining room to the dormitories.

The following far-too-short interval between breakfast and

"I'd rather curse ten nervous women than one nervous man," says Miss Hunt.

SANDEL'S OFFICES BEING REMODELED

The offices of Dean Sandels, head of the Home Economics department, are being remodeled. The partitions have been torn out, making the two small adjoining offices into one large room. The walls are being tinted a buff color. When completed, the office on the left will be used as a private office of Dean Sandels, while the one on the right will be the office of instructors of the department.

eight o'clock classes takes the form of an anti-climax to the situation. Toilets must be reached more conscientiously and painstakingly, floors swept, beds made, and, in general, a semblance of order evolved from one of recent chaos. The whole transformation necessarily requires only fifteen minutes, and often less, for its execution.

Then students rush to first hour classes, probably late, and arrive there breathless and exhausted. Seats are taken in the time of the teacher's tirade of abuse, in the event of actual tardiness, and a unanimous sigh of relief is heaved.

The "initial spurt" of the summer school day's activity is over.

Members of Alpha Xi Delta Have Party at Floridan on Thursday

Members of the Alpha Omega chapter of the Alpha Xi Delta sorority attended a dinner party at the Floridan hotel Thursday evening at 7:30. After dinner the guests were entertained at the home of Governor Doyle E. Carlton. This get-together occasion was one which afforded much pleasure to all present.

Those attending were: Misses Essie Gelfer, Mattie Mae Carlton, Louise C. Linn, Lillian Brown, Mary R. Whitely, Tompkins, Gladys McDonald, Marion Deacon, Frances Hunter, Eleanor Parr, Norma Bower, Ida Barlow and Hester Strogg. Miss Margaret Van Cleave of Lynn Haven, member of the Omega chapter at Stetson University, also attended.

STUDENTS FACULTY ENJOY BOAT TRIP

A number of faculty members, students, and members of the personnel went on a boat trip down the Gulf last week-end. The trip was sponsored by Dr. W. H. Rogers of the Department of English, and Mr. William Hodgson, owner of the boat, Salsme, acted as host.

The party left Tallahassee at about 2 o'clock last Saturday afternoon, and set sail from New Port at about four o'clock. A short stop was made at St. Marks for the purpose of getting provisions. The boat was anchored for the night at a point about twenty miles down the Gulf.

Among the most useful forms of recreation indulged in during the week-end was the fishing. Misses Rachel Piteford and Betty Kellerman were the highest honors, with twelve and eleven trout, respectively.

An important item of the trip was the food served by Mr. Hodgson and his, as the members of the party say, incomparable cooks. The hospitality displayed in this and other details was noted by those on the trip.

On returning, a visit was made, via motor boat, to the lighthouse. However, it was learned that the regulation concerning no visitors on Sundays was made for the purpose of being enforced, and access to the inside was not gained.

Those in the party were Mrs. W. H. Rogers, R. M. Browning and O. E. Kendrick; Misses Margaret Dow, Lois Stuckey, Sara Hurwell, Frances Rowles, Bland Rachel Piteford, Betty Kellerman, Helen Herbert, Osa Christensen, Ruby Bowden, Benita Whitten, Carmen Hall, Catherine Davis, Edith Davis, Lucille Morgan, Frizzelle Gamble.

Library Contains 30,500 Volumes; Receives 300 Monthly Magazines

"The library of the College now contains 30,500 volumes, and this number will not be increased to any appreciable extent when more space is available through the use of the new library," says Miss Louise Richardson, college librarian.

The new library is constructed to meet the needs of a growing library fifty years hence. Each year new books will be purchased with funds from the general income of the college. This appropriation is $10,000 per year.

The library receives 300 general and technical periodicals, the current numbers of which are in the reading room. Of these approximately 200 are bound and filed for reference work.

The library subscribes to three of the large daily newspapers, such as the New York Times, Dallas Times-Star and the United States Daily, but through the courtesy of the editors, twenty of the daily and weekly papers of Florida are sent as gifts.

The library receives all publications of the Carnegie Endowment of International Peace. It also receives many volumes of publications from the various departments of the United States government. In addition to these publications, much valuable material is received from state universities, colleges and from departments of state governments, including Florida.

DEAL LECTURES ON RED CROSS

Stresses Importance of the Junior Red Cross Work in Schools

A series of talks on the part of Junior Red Cross work in the schools has been given this week to classes in education by Mrs. Ruth M. Dowl, assistant director of the American Junior Red Cross from Washington, D. C., who is touring the country speaking to normal schools and colleges. Talks from Japan, Holland, work from European countries, and letters from children of forty-four foreign countries were shown in an interesting exhibit displayed in the administration building Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Interest in geography, history, civics and English is encouraged by the exchange of letters and gifts which is supervised by the national organization. Children's work is based on service to the home, community, and school with the purpose of the organization being to seek to promote health, to develop altruistic tendencies in children, to give practice in good citizenship, and to promote international friendship among the children of the world. Sharing with others is stressed in the interpretation of the Junior Red Cross motto, "I Serve".

College Enrollment Keeps Pace With Building Program

The completion of the new gymnasium will mark the latest step in the building program of the Florida State College for Women which was begun in 1927 with the construction of Bryan Hall. This hall was opened in honor of the great consumer, William Jennings Bryan.

The administration building is the oldest of the new college buildings. It was constructed in 1919. The next building to be erected was Reynolds Hall, a dormitory built in 1912 and named in honor of Mrs. William Reynolds. The dining hall was begun in 1923 and completed in 1925. The other buildings were erected as follows: Broward Hall, 1917; the infirmary, 1920; Education building, 1917; Science Hall, 1922; library, 1925; Jeanie Murphy Hall, 1929.

STUDENTS MUST STAY FOR COMMENCEMENT

Students of the summer school who wish extension or credit are required to remain through commencement exercises on Friday morning, August 2, 1929.

In case of an emergency (sickness or death) a student may leave before the exercises on Friday morning, provided she leaves an approved written request with the dean of students.

ALFRIEND TO DELIVER BACCALAUREATE

The baccalaureate service will be delivered by Rev. Jeffery Alf friend of the St. Johns Episcopal Church of Tallahassee on Sunday morning, July 29, at 11 o'clock in the college auditorium. The graduation address will be delivered by Judge E. C. Laver of Quincy, Florida, on Friday morning, August 2nd, at 9:30 o'clock.

Twenty-eight degrees will be awarded this summer. Among these are: Twenty-eight candidates for the bachelor's degree, one for a master of arts degree and forty-one for the degree of the bachelor of education.

All examinations will be completed Thursday before graduation.

DR. KENDRICK'S HOME IS DAMAGED BY FIRE

Fire of unknown origin damaged the home of Dr. O. G. Kendrick, one of the College physicians, in Meridian Heights, about 2 o'clock Friday morning. The fire evidently started in ceiling or some space near the center of the building, from which it spread upwards and through the roof. Dr. Kendrick was the only member of his family at home at the time.

The roof will have to be completely replaced and the rooms in some parts of the house were damaged, but the furniture was not injured to any great extent, according to Dr. Kendrick.

DR. CONRADI SPEAKS AT W. C. A. SUNDAY

Dr. Edward Conradi talked at 9 o'clock, W. C. A. Sunday morning at 9 o'clock, in the auditorium, using for his text John 6:63. "The words I speak unto you, they are the spirit." He likened minds to desert places which must be watered, giving a practical illustration of teachers who may have a great influence in the lives of their students.

Miss Lena Barber rendered a vocal selection.

REHEARSAL SATURDAY AT 9

Dr. W. H. Rogers, who is in charge of the graduation exercises, has announced that there will be a rehearsal Saturday morning, July 27, for the graduation exercises. All seniors and graduates are requested to be present promptly at 9 o'clock.

STUDENTS ENJOYED PROGRAM FRIDAY

"And the idea of this trick is to make these red, white and blue blocks reverse their positions," explained Mr. Claude McAnce, at the graduation, at the gym last Friday night. And by using his magic wand and a seemingly ordinary handkerchief he reversed their positions without touching them. The trick in which it was the "idea" to push a coin through his brother, an apparently whole man, he performed successfully. His abnormal appetite for red wooden balls was satisfied by his eating three. Mr. McAnce performed numerous tricks with cards, coins, and red handkerchiefs, always telling the audience the "idea" of the trick first, so that they would not be startled by what happened. He differed from most magicians only in not having a full hall of white rabbits and chickens.

After this part of the program, there was lively dancing by members of the gym classes, and other stunts. Paul Reeves's Ride and ascending Pike's Peak were among the amusing feats in which the audience, willingly or unwillingly, took the main part.

The last event in the evening's program was the honeymoon express. Three couples wearing bathing suits appeared at one end of the gym. When the whistle blew each person grabbed her umbrella and suit case and ran to the other end of the gym, where she put on her clothes. These clothes were not chosen with any thought of their making a smart ensemble but for the ease with which they could be put on and off, the main "idea" of this trick being speed. Their nine articles of clothing being on, they ran back to the starting place and took their costumes off and then rushed back to the "station." The honeymooners who won this contest were "Happy" and "Kay".

Miss Dorothy Jenkins conducted the program and acted as cheer leader, referee, judge and general director of the contest.

Gasparrilla was a notorious pirate who roamed over the west coast of Florida.

ANNUAL BANQUET HELD THURSDAY

Gypsy Scheme Carried Out in a Program Enjoyed by All

A gypsy scheme was carried out in the annual summer school banquet held last night at 6:30 o'clock. Suggestions of life in Romany was the theme of the entire program. The gypsy caravan was composed of the queen of the tribe and the fortune tellers. Dean N. M. Sales, Supt. W. S. Cawthon, Dean Charlotte Berkman and Governor Doyle E. Carlton. Clara Craig Johnson was the queen of the tribe. Dr. Edward Conradi spoke on a Romany pattern.

"There is something in the blood of us.
A bit of Persian moon.
To touch our hearts and make us love
A gypsy kismet tune."

Music, song and dance numbers in the gypsy manner were rendered by selected students.

The program was arranged by the faculty and student committees. The faculty committee was composed of Dean Beckham, Miss Alice Shepard, Mrs. Virginia T. Sloane and Miss Norma Bauer. Those on the student committee were Mildred Heng, Elizabeth Bently, Rose Chiaramonte, Dolly Connor, Margaret Campbell, Mildred Tomkins and Hilda Jone Walters.

Special guests at the summer school banquet included Dr. Edward Conradi, Dr. William Dodd, Governor and Mrs. Carlton, Supt. and Mrs. J. G. Kellum, Dean Ella Scoble Opperman, Dean Margaret Sandels, Miss Norma Bauer, Judge and Mrs. Buford, Senator and Mrs. W. C. Hodges, Hon. Walter McLean, Hon. and Mrs. Fred H. Davis, Hon. and Mrs. W. V. Knott, Hon. H. C. Crawford and Miss Genevieve Crawford.

The following menu was served: Vagabond cackall, broiled chickens, sweet potatoes, spiced crab apples, asparagus, pills, tomatoes on surprise, and Slim Jim pretzels. The last course was Romany ice cream, macaroons, milks and knapsack nuts.

SUMMER SCHOOL SUCCESS

As the summer session comes to a close and examinations approach, there are many students who approach the end with fear and trepidation. They are apprehensive of the outcome of their summer work. Pointedly, they wonder what their grades will be. After working diligently, they are nevertheless not sure that their grades will be high or even passing fair. Some, perhaps, have not worked so hard and in their minds there is just cause for apprehension as to the grades they will receive.

But it is unfortunate for those who have worked diligently and well to come to the end of the summer's work, with fear and uncertainty. Work intelligently and well done should be attended by a sense of satisfaction and the assurance that proper grades will be awarded.

Faculty members are anxious to award proper grades for work done. They usually endeavor to help students to study effectively and thereby come to the end of the summer with a well-organized concept or grasp of the work covered. But poor habits of reading and study are crippling factors when examination time comes. Many students who come to class learn rather late to study (read) intelligently. As they progress through the summer's work they may read much, too much, indeed, and come to the end with an indefinite grasp of the content of the course or courses covered.

The ability to grasp essential details and overlook unimportant details in reading is of high importance. Further, it is important to know how to organize the important details as they are noted in reading and so present such facts when examination time comes.

If one has worked diligently and intelligently, using effective study habits, there is no cause for apprehension when examination time comes.

GIRLS ENJOY PLASTACOWO

The group of girls spending last week-end at Camp Flamingo included Lucy Steele, Hanne, Helen Hiler, Marjorie Howard, Jennie Kaul, Florio, Louie, Alley Hays, Harriet Baker, Esther Cadman, Harriett Hancey, Marion Deacon, K. O. Walters and Grace Fox.

CO-ED GOSSIP

Would you hate me, you glorious ladies.

If I gave you my thoughts today Not in a stilted and conventional prose,

But in a simple poetic way? Oh! You would love it, 'then listen.

Just lend me your dainty ear and I'll fill it with ditties and love songs

That perhaps may bring a tear. I know you've heard that old story

Of that very unfortunate girl, Who lost her precious lover, By telling him he was the best

In the world. What, You've heard no such story?

Not from books, nor did I lie not recall?

But since you deny it so emphatically, I'll confess, it was a fairy tale

For the only type of the mighty male Whose weakness is not his vanity Is that irresponsible, carefree fellow

Who is afflicted with permanent insanity

Now there is a wise and very old saying,

That one horse's shoe is good luck, But not even the dumbest of all the dumb Would deny that a wagonload of them is junk

So now that you have the horse shoe

That will conquer all the men, I shall travel lightly to some other theme And not mention man's weakness again.

I could ramble for an hour, or possibly more, On that intriguing theme, the speech of eyes, But I might say that the eyes tell the truth.

Then you'd try to force them to potentiate lies

Not because what I would say would be untrue.

For the eyes are the only true things of woman

But surely because you would want to disprove

Any theory of woman's eyes written by a man.

Now I know that you have seen that very same man

Who swore he would never get married?

Well, he met his fate one night and May

When his gaze in a lady's eyes tenderly tarried?

For he dashed him forth with his lady fair

And he swore some connubial vows, And now he has three, or maybe four,

Little, but lusty wags and wows Sometimes he scuttles with his wags on the floor to avert parental glances,

But he would tell you, if you asked him, as a lone confidant

That his life is but bare misery

Which all goes to prove what I knew long since, That its not had to verbally thrust and parry,

But a fatal error for any good man is to let his gaze in a lady's eyes tarry. These are all the stories I know today

All the tragedies and ditties and what-nots

So I bid you good-bye and 'til this time next week,

I'll nap 'mongst the forget-me-nots.

Yours,

EDDIE.

RUSTY

He's a roly-poly, pot-stomached, fat little boy,

With great big eyes of blue; His feet are dirty and his face is jolly,

Like all little boys of half past two.

He walks in a stumble, and falls with a grunt,

And he grunts as he rises again. When he runs he just waddles, she can't get at it with a powder and he plays to mud puddles

Soon as he can slip out after the rain.

He can't talk his way out of his heart,

But his grin will carry him through. His cheeks are rosy and he cuddles so cozy.

When the sandman takes him under his care.

His mother just stutters the blues in his breeches.

That let his little white teeth shine through.

He's so fat that when he falls he bounces like a ball.

This rusty little boy of half past two.

God bless the little boy, with their little dirty feet.

Something they will have to be men.

Don't let their little socks show so infinitely old

That they can never be new again.

MANY SCHOLARSHIPS OFFERED TO F. S. C.

There are many instances of worthy students being deprived of a college education. Thoughtful men and women are at work in Florida to see that ways and means shall be provided to assist every worthy young woman to gain a college education.

Mr. J. G. Kellum, business manager of Florida State College for Women, has compiled a list of scholarships to Florida State College for Women, in a pamphlet entitled, "Ways of Financing a College Education." It lists the alumnae scholarships and loans, bequests, county commissioners' scholarships, Florida Federation of Women's Clubs scholarships, scholarships from various civic and fraternal organizations, Panhellenic scholarships, United Daughters of the Confederacy of the United States scholarships, United Daughters of the Confederacy of Florida scholarships, and other means of getting a scholarship, such as working in the dining room, employment in the various offices of the college and independent work connected with the college. Inquiries concerning the various kinds of scholarships should be addressed to Mr. J. G. Kellum, Business Manager, F. S. C. W., Tallahassee, Florida. In the inquiry there should be a frank statement of one's needs and the kind of work one wishes to do.

NO NEED TO SAY GOOD-BYE

Oh, Mocking Bird! Little comforter of late and sleepless night!
Soothe me, for I cannot rest,
with thy melodies so light.
Let the glory in thy happy heart ring music from thy throat.
And your melodies, ease my pained memories, sing thy nocturnal note.

Oh Soul of Music, could you but know how you gladden me—

You'd sing 'till I slipped into rest, ful sleep, your joyful hurmony.

You'd awake me to cheer my of day.

Then all day long, you sing your song and all my grief away.

I know you would for any spirit
with soul as sweet as mine
Would give me of music in thy

MISS HUNT RESIGNS AS INFIRMARY HEAD

F. S. C. W. is about to lose a friend.

When the girls come back in September, those who go to the infirmary will miss one comforting presence which for the past ten years has helped to speed girls from illness to quick recovery, by means of excellent care and great goodwill. It is with deep regret that the girls of both the summer and the winter sessions will receive the announcement of the resignation of Miss Helen M. Hunt as head nurse of the college infirmary, which has been rendered necessary by continued ill health.

Miss Hunt came to the infirmary in the September of 1917. Since the spring of 1928 she has been in full charge of that vital institution of the college.

When she leaves Tallahassee at the close of the summer school next week, Miss Hunt will go to Richmond, Virginia, to visit her brother and sister there. She is as yet undecided as to her plans for next year, and says she will make no definite arrangements until she has had the complete rest of which she has been in need for some time.

In connection with the announcement of her resignation, Miss Hunt issues the following statement in the nature of a farewell and parting wish to the students of F. S. C. W.:

"Inasmuch as my health will not permit me to resume my duties as head nurse of the college infirmary next year, I wish at this time to thank the students of the college for their

Over 600 Are Served Each Meal in Dining Room, Says Dietitian

"No, the gravy served in the dining room does not come in barrels. That story is told to the freshmen every year and circulates all over the campus. We make our own gravy," said Miss Norma Bauer, college dietitian.

"Over six hundred people are served in the dining room. This is about half the number that are served during the regular term," the dietitian said.

Five hundred pounds of chicken are used for one meal and for a salad one crate of head lettuce is necessary. Three hundred pounds of potatoes, sixty dozen ears of corn and thirty-five gallons of ice cream are used for one meal, according to Miss Bauer.

In the bakery, two sacks of bread flour and one sack of pastry flour are used daily. Each day sixty pounds of butter and ten gallons of milk are used.

During the summer term approximately thirty girls serve the meals. About twice that number are employed during the regular term.

The cost for three meals a day per person is $0.655.

beautiful consideration for and co-operation with me during the past two years. Your spirit has been of the finest, and it is with deep regret that I leave you. May the years bring to you the attainment of your highest goals, the happiness of a full and useful life, and the peace that passeth all understanding."

CAMPUS BEAUTIFIED BY SHRUBS AND FLOWERS

There is a large amount of work to be done on the college campus between now and the opening of the fall term, according to Mr. J. G. Kellum, business manager of Florida State College for Women.

A workman may now be seen high up on a ladder trimming the ivy vines. The vines grow fast during the wet weather in summer. It will take one man until the opening date of the regular term to clip the vines on all the college buildings, according to Mr. Kellum. He also stated that all shrubbery would be trimmed by that date. He says that he finds it more practical to keep the campus shrubbery, flowers and lawns in good condition through vacation than to fix them after school starts. There are plantings of ivy to be made around the library building as soon as the roof is completed and on one side of Gilchrist Hall.

The law ground in front of Gilchrist Hall is being filled in. Shrubs, flowers and lawns are to be planted. Work is being done on the new driveway from Gilchrist Hall around to the 22 entrance.

All the electric wires on the campus will be put under ground, eliminating the danger of falling live wires from storms and falling trees. As soon as summer school is out a new gas line will be laid in the rear of the administration building. This will entail an excavation across the campus, so it must be done at a time when there are few students on the campus. Mr. Kellum stated.

The Spaniards first came to Amelia island, near Fernandina, but remained there a short time, moving farther south in St. Augustine.

Psychology Department Very Strong at F. S. C., Says Doctor Peterson

The psychology department of Florida State College for Women is the strongest of any institution of its type in this section, according to an article published in the Psychological Review by Dr. Joseph Peterson of Kentucky College.

Doctor Peterson made a study of the psychology departments of the nation and graded each department on its laboratory equipment, teaching personnel, the number of books added to the department each year and the number of current periodicals in the library covering the field.

Doctor Flinner, head of the psychology department of Florida State College for Women, at tributes part of the growth of the department to the fact that Doctor Hayden established a laboratory course rather than a general one in 1915. Psychology has turned to laboratory work almost entirely. Many of the other colleges who had developed more general courses with no laboratory are now putting in the laboratories.

There are four people with doctor's degrees from leading universities who give their full time to the work. The department has seventeen periodicals in the library pertaining to the field of psychological literature.

In many ways the work is only at its beginning. For the first time in this State the department conducted a clinic which extended over two child years. This is the type of work which makes the problems of childhood, and it is the work of the future.

The department is now under taking to examine every student by laboratory method. Its aim is to interpret a student to himself. "There are a lot of things a student should know," says Doctor Flinner. "Among them are muscle control, speed of faculties and attitude on certain questions."

While F. S. C. W. has made a good start in clinical work, yet the laboratory is by no means adequate for this work. About $3,000 worth of laboratory equipment is yet needed. However, the State has been generous in its appropriations, consequently the outlook for this department is very favorable.

COLLEGE ENROLLMENT

1922; Demonstration School building, 1918; Gilchrist Hall, 1925; H28; History building, 1926; and the Home Management House, 1927.

The enrollment of the college has kept in pace with the building program. In 1925 there were 114 students enrolled. When Dr. Edward Carroll became president of the college in 1926, the enrollment was 200. There are already over 1,500 girls enrolled for the coming winter term, with the enrollment yet to complete.

Miss Montgomery said that an encouraging number of freshmen have reported as life savers.
Gym to Be T Shaped
When this section of the new gymnasium is finished, the building will be two-thirds completed. The plans call for a T-shaped structure, of which the T-shaped pool forms one complete unit. The building is three stories high, and has a sub basement in which the laundry for the gym swimming suits, and towels is located. Restrooms, rooms, study rooms, and rooms for the storage of equipment are also down there. On the ground floor, rooms with two showers, each of each, distributing rooms for towels and suits, and three offices to be occupied by Miss Ruth Moffett, Miss Morrie on and Miss Meyer.

The main floor which is strictly speaking, the second floor, leads to the 40 by 75 foot swimming pool. The big gym room is immediately in back of the lobby, and the entrance to the building is flanked by offices, there being two on either side. Those on the left of the entrance are to be used by Miss Bernice Wood, and Dr. Anna Sharpe. Those on the right are for Miss Katherine Montgomery and Miss Helen Hargrave. At the rear of the gym room is a dictionary and library room.

Sea Room on Third Floor
A balcony in the gym room is entered by stairs at the back of the building. And at the back of the gymnasium on the top or third floor will be a sun room equipped with glass windows which let in the ultra-violet rays. Girls needing special treatment will be given individual attention there.

At the front east over the lobby is another gym room in which natural dancing studio and tumbling and individual work will be carried on. There is also growing, emphasize two things.

First, to cultivate a genuine interest in the great truths of life as the real source of never-ending peace and joy. All the lighter pleasures and diversions can only serve as temporary recreation. If they assume too large a place in one's heart they lose their joy-giving qualities, and in the long run one's life, at best, is only empty. And, therefore, second, to build up an abiding interest in the great truths of life takes SELF-RESTRAINT; nothing in this world has ever been built without it; it is the essence of character; it is fundamental in a sound intellectual life; it has been indispensable in all creative life through all the ages, and is a large lecture room on this top floor.

It is expected that the road leading from the dormitories to the gymnasium will be graded and pavers laid before the building is opened for use in November.

and dry country where the word river is merely a term one appreciates more than ever. The refined beauty of Florida with its abundant lake, arboreal and flourishing vegetation," said Dr. Kruz. "And also," he added, "the good roads of all the highways over which I traveled I found Florida highway number one the best and most beautiful."
Dr. Kruz was accompanied on the tour by his wife and two children who had their guest Miss Irene Brunson, of Saratoga, a recent graduate of the Florida State College for Women.

MAKE YOURSELF FELICITE

Occasionally one hears an underclassman brag that he had heard of the Freshmen's election. One night in the college gymnasium the student, to prevent my grades up enough to qualify.

To couldn't such excuses from being made by the present freshman class. The Flambeau is selling all the new election tickets and the points are on which the torchbearers are judged. Scholarship, leadership and service are the three things sought for in torchbearers. An average of at least 3.0 is maintained by the torchbearers. Three years of college work. The eligible girl is outstanding in outside activities too, and is willing to contribute in every thing she has a part in it. Not all who apparently "make the grade" are in the inner circle of the highest type of womanhood on the campus, for those who are leaders of their fellow students are picked.

Near the end of the second semester, one may see torchbearers gathering in groups to discuss various possibilities; finally one night in the college gymnasium the student, to prevent my grades up enough to qualify.

ENROLLMENT INCREASE SINCE 1926 DUE TO SPECIALIZATION
Back in the days of 1910 when long, modest skirts rustled across the campus of Florida State College for Women and the number of students enrolled totaled 354, a college of this size was considered rather a luxury. Today this type of higher education is no longer a luxury, and as a result there are nearly 2,000 students attending this college. This is probably due to the fact that today the day of specialization and to succeed, a person must be able to not only do his best but to be an expert in his field.

Not only does a student obtain book knowledge while attending college, but the association with the large number of people who are the best educators and versatile people of the country, is an education in itself. The highest type of education obtains the inspirations which make him the best. The highest type of education obtains the inspirations which make him the best. FRESHMEN ANTIC

One Freshman was speaking to another: "The first thing I heard of the election was that it was a fraud that it almost hurt."

During the period a prospect turned to one of the new arrivals and said: "I am not sure if you are entering." The young man replied: "I am not sure if you are entering." The young man replied: "I am not sure if you are entering."

A frantic messenger rushed up to the Freshman and said: "The first thing I heard of the election was that it was a fraud that it almost hurt."

As the bagger from the bus began to collect, the Freshman exclaimed: "The first thing I heard of the election was that it was a fraud that it almost hurt."

When it was finally over, the Freshman exclaimed: "The first thing I heard of the election was that it was a fraud that it almost hurt."

A trained woman, who had been over the campus, asked the Freshman: "The first thing I heard of the election was that it was a fraud that it almost hurt."

"What does the election mean to me?" asked a timid woman. "The first thing I heard of the election was that it was a fraud that it almost hurt."

After the election was over, the Freshman exclaimed: "The first thing I heard of the election was that it was a fraud that it almost hurt."

As I was going through the crowd, I was asked: "The first thing I heard of the election was that it was a fraud that it almost hurt."
